Dr. Edwin Mims, Member of Vanderbilt University Faculty, Speaker

ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-EIGHT "pilgrims" passed another landmark on the "journey of life" last night in the Glendale Theatre at the annual commencement exercises of Glendale Union high school.

The class of 1923 was formally presented to the audience which filled the theatre by Principal George U. Moyse.

Diplomas were awarded by H. W. Yarrick, president of the board of trustees.

Allen K. Pollock, president of the graduating class, presented the class memorial. This was a check for $100.

The program went forward exactly as scheduled. All musical numbers were provided by members of the senior class. They were all well received.

The Senior Boys' Glee club sang two numbers at this time: "Sylvia," by Oley Speaks, and "The Old Road," by Prindle Scott.

A cornet solo by Ivan Dow followed. This was Gilbert's "Bonnie, Sweet Bessie." It was vigorously applauded.

Score Dead In Chicago Heat; Ice Profiteering

CHICAGO, June 22.—With the mercury rising at a rate that threatened to send it up into the nineties for the fifth consecutive day, the city government today started a campaign against profiteering ice dealers, who, it is charged, are adding to the suffering of the poor by high prices and short weights. The deaths during the present heat wave now number a score and no relief is in sight, according to the weather bureau. However, it said the law of averages favored a break by Sunday.

NEW YORK, June 22.—With a toll of twenty-one dead and more than a hundred prostrated in New York and vicinity, relief came today from the heat wave which for two days held the city in its grip. Cooling breezes swept over the island out of the St. Lawrence valley, the mercury hovering around 80 degrees during the morning. The early night hours were sweltering. Thousands again sought the cooling sands of the beaches for the night; others once more slept in parks, and in the lowlands along the East river beneath the Brooklyn and Manhattan bridges. Weather Forecaster Starr predicted a continuation of the cool weather.

BULLETIN ABOARD THE U. S. S. LEVIATHAN, June 22.—The liner Leviathan today broke the world's speed record for steamships by making 28 2-5 knots on a test run. The former record, held by the Cunard liner steamship, Mauretania, was 27 5-10 knots an hour.

ABOARD AMERICAN STEAMSHIP LEVIATHAN, June 22.—(BY WIRELESS TO INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE).—The Leviathan with her shipping board guests on board today completed the first half of her trial spin to the complete satisfaction of the trial board.

Officers of the ship were all set for speed tests in an effort to establish a new record. The weather is fair, but warmer. All on board are well.

The liner passed "Hole in the Wall" fifty miles north of Nassau, early in the day and then steamed towards the Florida coast. Members of the guest party emphasize the decorum of the passengers.

Government Will Nip Plot to Limit Coal

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The federal government will proceed "forcefully" to prevent the United Mine Workers of America from agreeing with organized miners in foreign countries to stop coal production over seas in case of a strike in this country. Attorney-General Daugherty declared today in a letter to John Hays Hammond, chairman of the United States coal commission.

Twenty-Five Beauties In Contest For Queen Of K. Of C's Picnic On Sunday

The entertainment committee in charge of the Knights of Columbus picnic, that is to be held at Verdugo park on Sunday have been broadening out and putting more and bigger features on the program than had at first been contemplated, with the result that the plans for the day have assumed a magnitude that promises to make the first K. C. picnic an event of outstanding importance in Southland celebration.

Chief among today's announcements is one that tells of the contest that is to be held for queen of the picnic. Representatives of twenty-five parishes in Los Angeles and surrounding towns have been entered for this honor, the fairest and most popular manner of the selection of the queen bears the stamp of novelty. The twenty-five contestants will be introduced at the same time on the stage, and at the firing of a gun shot they will plunge into the crowd, that is expected to number thousands, and sell tickets for one solid hour, these tickets being good for admission to any entertainment on the grounds.

At the end of the hour the girl who has sold the greatest number of tickets will be chosen as queen, and she will be crowned by Carmel Myers, the famous moving picture beauty, who has been invited to be present and carry out this part of the day's program.

The principal speaker of the day will be Joseph Scott, one of the leaders in the Roman Catholic church and in Knights of Columbus work in this state. Mr. Scott's activities in religious and fraternal work have won for him the gift of high honors from the Pope, and his address is certain to have a vital interest to every member of the Knights of Columbus and their friends.

BIG PAGEANT IS FEATURE AT WILSON EXERCISES

Open Air Spectacle Wins Applause; Class of '23 Receives Diplomas

SEVERAL hundred spectators witnessed the beautiful open-air pageant, "America, Yesterday and Today," featuring the graduating exercises at Wilson avenue school. The affair was held on the school grounds, commencing at 6 o'clock last night, and comprised seven episodes depicting the various stages in this nation's history to date.

Episode I, "Woodland Scene," which was preceded by a selection by the Wilson Avenue School orchestra, was led by Helen Grace Parker, as the "Spirit of the Wilderness," she being assisted by a group of boys, and girls as "Woodland Sprites."

The episode was introduced by Winifred Louise Hunt, Beatrice Irene Case and Janice Marie Brown, in the roles of America, Liberty and Hope.

Episode II, "Indian Scene," was led by Frances Moroz, as the "Spirit of the Indian Days," with a group of boys and girls as "Indians."

Episode III, "Pilgrim Scene," was led by Ruth Priscilla Moore, as the "Spirit of Religious Freedom," with a group of boys and girls as "Pilgrims."

Episode IV, "Scene from Revolutionary Period," was very impressive. The boys, in gorgeous costumes, with white wigs, white silk stockings, knee breeches and black pumps with large silver buckles, represented such famous figures as George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Alexander Hamilton, the Marquis de Lafayette, while the girls, with powdered hair piled in gracious pompadours and long, stately gowns, enacted the roles of those "first ladies of our land," in that bygone day.

Episode V, "Civil War Period," depicted a scene from John General Grant for his services in suppressing the Fenian Raid in 1866. He was one of the first to volunteer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Evans celebrated their silver wedding in Saginaw, Mich., where Mr. Evans was foreman of "The Morning Courier" for twenty-eight years. Later they moved to Detroit where Mr. Evans was proforester for the Henry Linotype company.

Eight years ago they migrated to California and lived in Los Angeles until two years ago, when they became Glendale boosters. March 27, 1922, they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Funeral Saturday
Funeral services will be held under the direction of L. G. Soenen at 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 23, 1923, in the Little Church of the Flowers. Mr. Evans was a member of the Episcopal church and Dr. George H. (Continued on page 3)

Youthful Killer Goes To Death on Gallows

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., June 22.—Lawrence Campbell, 19 year old Michigan boy, who today will pay the supreme penalty on the gallows for the slaying of Leslie Nichols, faced his fate serenely today. Hope of executive clemency being exercised by Governor Richardson in behalf of the condemned youth faded early today when word came from Sacramento that the governor had refused to give audience to Mrs. Helen F. Gerton, San Francisco woman, who, carrying a confession of Charles Davis, Campbell's 18-year old pal, that he had fired the fatal shots, went there late last night to intercede. Davis' confession was presented to the governor but failed to alter his attitude. Davis is serving a life sentence in San Quentin, his age having saved him from the gallows. Campbell's heartbroken parents today were en route back to their Marquette, Mich., home. They came to see their son and bade him an affectionate farewell early this week when all hope was abandoned.

Blame Bad Brakes in School Girl's Death

SEATTLE, Wash., June 22.—Defective brakes, it was said today by the coroner, were responsible for the crash which last night claimed the life of Marian Eggerman, 16-year-old school girl. Two companions were seriously injured when their automobile collided with a machine driven by Dr. R. C. Morse of Puyallup. Miss Eggerman was hurled through the windshield to the pavement.

'BILL' EVANS DIES FROM ILLNESS

Proprietor of News Stand at Brand and Broadway Passes Away

William G. Evans of 105 South Maryland avenue, proprietor of the newspaper stand which stood until recently on the northeast corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway, died yesterday afternoon, Thursday, June 21, 1923, after an illness lasting since December. His widow, Mrs. Isabella E. Evans, survives him.

"Bill" Evans, as he was known, was a self-educated man. Although he did not have the opportunity to attend college in his youth, he acquired quite a liberal education through extensive reading. He had natural ability as a linguist and understood over seven languages. He took great interest in Glendale and was known as "the local information bureau." He was known to his many customers, most of whom did not know his full name, as "Dad."

Mr. Evans was born in Montreal, Canada, April 24, 1848 and was 75 years of age upon his last birthday. He spent most of his boyhood in London, Quebec.

Medal From Queen
One of his treasures was a medal of honor presented to him by Queen Victoria for his services in suppressing the Fenian Raid in 1866. He was one of the first to volunteer.

COURT CASE STATED BY HARDING

President Indicates Limit of Concessions to G. O. P. Irreconcilables

By GEORGE R. HOLMES For International News Service

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT HARDING, June 22.—President Harding sped on his way westward today convinced that he has immeasurably strengthened the case of the new international court before the people.

He has said he is "not wedded irrevocably to any particular method" of showing America's willingness to embrace the principles of international arbitration; he has indicated clearly that he is willing to accept any "reasonable reservations" which the Republican irreconcilables may decide are necessary, but further than this, his friends say today, Mr. Harding will not go.

The president considers that in his speech at St. Louis last night he made every concession to the opposition that consistently can be asked of him—even by the irreconcilables. He takes the position that Republican platforms for twenty years have pledged the party to the world court idea, and that he has now offered the party an opportunity to "make good" on the pledge and on its own terms.

"I am so eager for the ultimate accomplishment," he said, "that I am interested in harmonizing opposing elements, more anxious to effect our helpful commitment to the court, than am to score a victory for executive insistence."

Rests His Case
With this disavowal of White House dictation, which was loudly cheered by his St. Louis audience, and with the reiterated pledge that joining the court does not mean joining the league, Mr. Harding is content to rest his case. He will refer to the court only incidentally during the many other speeches he will make between St. Louis and San Diego. From now on his major speeches will be devoted to questions concerning domestic issues—transportation, taxation, law enforcement, social justice, etc.

The president left St. Louis early this morning on the second leg of his western trip. The presidential special is due to arrive in Kansas City shortly before noon, and there tonight Mr. Harding will deliver his expected address on the railroad situation. It is expected that he will endorse the plan of consolidating the railroads of the country into a few great systems as the only method of obtaining that orderly and adequate service which the public demands.

Railroads, Theme
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 22.—President Harding arrived in Kansas City this morning, the second speaking stop on his long western journey.

Thousands of people, blocking the streets around Union Station and along the route of the motor parade, accorded the chief executive and Mrs. Harding a tumultuous ovation.

The president was in good spirits when he arrived in Kansas City. He feels that in St. Louis last night he spoke the last word on the world court issue, and is (Continued on page 5)

Urges Sterilization Of Mentally Unfit

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—Birth control and sterilization of the mentally unfit are necessary to prevent our "beloved country" perishing in a mire of insanity, degeneracy, poverty, immorality and crime," Dr. H. G. Brahm, president of the California Medical association and noted psychiatrist, declared in an address before the annual convention of the state society today.

"I believe," Dr. Brahm said, "that every male who becomes a charge on the state by reason of insanity, feeble-mindedness or crime should be sterilized before being discharged from state care." He made the same recommendation concerning every mentally defective female coming under state care.

"It seems to me," the speaker continued, "the members of the medical profession must give their best efforts to the great undertaking along the lines of preventive medicine, and that they should urge our national government to scan more closely the immigrants and rigorously reject those mentally unfit."

Crew Rescued From Power Boat on Fire

SAYBROOK, Conn., June 22.—The crew of a gasoline driven power boat burned to the water's edge off Fenwick Light late yesterday afternoon, was rescued by another power boat that was close by and taken toward New London, according to spectators of the accident. No lives were lost, according to those who saw the fire and the rescue. Spectators believe the lost vessel was a government craft.

W. B. Kirk Tells About Visit To Grand Canyon, Dances By Hopi Indians

GLENDALE EVENING NEWS readers are to have the opportunity today of mentally continuing on their way across the continent with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kirk and daughter, in anticipation of sailing for foreign countries overseas. In his travelogue today Mr. Kirk gives the following account:

"At last we are on our way! After years of desire, weeks of delay, apparent impossibility and postponement, we are on the first leg of our journey via the Santa Fe Limited to Chicago.

"Friends, you will have to undertake a long trip like this in order to know how many real friends you have, how much they care for you and how you really love them! The little presents which we know come from the heart; the letters to be read en route; but, above all, the words and expressions of endearment, which show in the eyes not only of those near to you, but of others whom you had never realized gave you much more than a passing thought, are a revelation to you and give you a deeper and fuller realization of what true friendship really is.

"At church and in office, at the homes of associates and at the train we listened to encomiums of praise, recognition of usefulness, loss of personal touch and promises of prayers for our health, safety and return, out of all proportion to our merit, things which would bring tears to the eyes of the coldest-hearted. They make us very humble. How can we repay all this? To one and all, who are among those mentioned, who read these lines, we send special greeting and heartfelt thanks! May God spare you, every one, till we can look into your eyes again and tell you how good you are!

Composed Hurriedly
"In these letters I shall take the liberty of rambling into any by-paths of thought which my mind shall stumble into, just as you do when you are writing a letter to a friend. They will necessarily be composed and written hurriedly, on trains, boats and in other unusual places, so if you are expecting accurate political or economic facts and statistics such as you get from 'Carpenter' or 'Gil' or other well known writers, who make a business of collecting such things, you will have plenty of criticism to make of me and I would rather you wouldn't read them at all. If you do be charitable in criticism, giving me credit for integrity of purpose and sincerity in conclusions, with the desire of rendering you a little service as we pass along the road which we travel but once. Some of you have been over all or most of the trip, which we shall make and many of you could write about it much better than I can, but I am quoting the language of the great Peter, 'such as I have give I thee'.

Grand Canyon
"Who can picture the Grand Canyon? Either in words or in film? Certainly I cannot, and I shall make no attempt at it. Surely it is one of the most awesome, gigantic, terrible pieces of all God's handiwork. To see it first, if the wonders of nature were the entire object of your trip, would be like reading a novel backwards, for there is no natural grandeur yet to be seen which will surpass it.

"Such is the testimony of world-wide travelers to whom I have talked; and it is within such easy access of Southern California! For in all-year resort, changing with the changing seasons, none other can equal it. When I first saw it, a few years ago, the thought came to me that it was the most ideal spot for a honeymoon that I had yet seen (Continued on page 4)

SEIZE BOOZE ON BOARD ENGLISH VESSEL

U. S. Customs Officials Break Seals and Take Liquor Supply

NEW YORK, June 22.—Following eleventh hour instructions telegraphed from the treasury department, the United States customs authorities here this afternoon boarded the Cunard liner Berengaria, when she docked at the foot of West Fourteenth street, broke the British customs seals on a supply of liquor in the ship's store room and officially seized it.

The arrival of the White Star liner Baltic a few hours earlier, also with liquor for beverage purposes on the return voyage was not expected, as in the case of the Berengaria, and the Baltic's liquor was merely placed under guard. It will, however, be dealt with later in the same fashion as that of the Berengaria.

In both cases liquor was acknowledged in the ship manifest and evidently intended to create a situation requiring further decision by United States courts. The recent liquor ruling of the United States supreme court prohibited "import and export" within the three mile limit and it is evident the purpose of the British to have it settled whether liquor under seal is for export or import.

Cargo of Booze
The Berengaria, according to her customs manifest, brought in sealed in her medical storeroom, forty-seven and one-sixth gallons of wine, twenty and five-eighths gallons of spirits (whiskey and brandy) and 150 bottles of beer, ale and stout.

But in the ship's store room, and frankly for beverage purposes on the return voyage, the Berengaria had under British customs seal 108 1/2 gallons of wine, 110 1-3 gallons of spirits, and 3,887 bottles of beer, ale and stout.

The United States officials, in a wholly formal procedure, broke the British seals on both storerooms, substituted American customs seals and put a guard before the doors.

On the Baltic they did not immediately go as far as on the Berengaria. The customs officers merely put a guard outside her storerooms and did not touch the British seals on the locks.

Break Seals, Order
WASHINGTON, June 22.—Customs officials in New York were ordered by the treasury department today to break the seals and seize all beverage liquor on the steamship Baltic which arrived in that port this morning.

After boarding the Baltic and establishing guards on both storerooms, New York officials wired Washington for instructions. These instructions flatly said that the liquor must be seized in violation of the American dry law and the liquor turned over to prohibition officials. Prohibition authorities were told to give the captain of the Baltic a receipt for the wet supply, and to hold all liquor pending further word from the treasury about disposition.

The entire liquor supply on the Baltic, except that certified for medical purposes, must be removed at once, the treasury department advised Collector of the Port Eiting in New York.

The British ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, was notified immediately.

"I cannot accept mercy at the hands of the executioners of the Russian people."

General Brusloff was one of the foremost generals of the Czarist regime, but cast his lot with the soviets when they came into power.

Annual Outing
One of the most enjoyable of the many affairs of the Thursday Afternoon club this season was the annual picnic held yesterday at Griffith park. The members assembled at 11:30 o'clock at Central avenue and Los Feliz road, where the transportation committee had arranged for the trip by motor to the picnic grounds.

The tables were spread with snowy cloths, the officers' table decorated with bright nasturtiums. A delicious basket lunch was served, and, in addition, coffee, Spanish rice, beans and various other dishes were steaming hot on the camp stove, under the watchful eye of Mrs. A. J. Becker, chairman of the hospitality committee, who, with her competent aides, contributed much toward the pleasure of the delightful outdoor meal.

Following the lunch hour, with Mrs. W. C. Mabry, presiding officer, the following officers recently elected were formally installed: Mrs. W. C. Mabry, president; Mrs. E. V. Bacon, first vice-president; Mrs. S. E. Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Roy Bancroft, corresponding secretary.

Discussion of the necessity of building or buying a clubhouse resulted in the appointment of a special committee, composed of Mrs. A. J. Becker, Mrs. E. V. Bacon, Mrs. L. C. Rice and Mrs. W. A. Anderson, who will formulate plans to be brought before the club at the first meeting in the autumn, by which the club may be able to secure suitable quarters for the coming year.

DEATHS--FUNERALS

JOSEPH L. DENNEY
In the death Wednesday of Joseph L. Denney, another of Glendale's old soldiers answered the final call. Mr. Denney had been ill for some time and only a week ago Thursday had been brought to his home at 119 South Verdugo road from a Burbank hospital.

He had resided in Glendale sixteen years and during that time always made his home on the property on Verdugo road. With his wife, the late Ada Atkinson Denney, he made a wide circle of friends in Glendale, who are sorry for his passing.

Mr. Denney, who was 78 years of age at the time of his death, was a loyal member of the N. P. Banks post, G. A. R. and also of the Fillmore lodge, F. & A. M. in Fillmore, Mo.

He came to Glendale from Fillmore, and his only survivor is a son, E. E. Denney, who now makes his home on the old family homestead at Fillmore. The son is to arrive Sunday for his father's funeral and to take the remains to Missouri for burial.

Funeral services are to be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the chapel of the Jewel City Undertaking Company, with officers of the N. P. Banks post in charge. Rev. W. E. Edmonds will assist.

MARIA ELIZA ANDERSON
Mrs. Maria Eliza Anderson died Wednesday, June 20, 1923 at the family home at 147 West Mayfield avenue, La Crescenta, at the age of 62 years.

The deceased, who had resided at La Crescenta for three years, is survived by her husband, Calvin Newton Anderson and a daughter, Bernice M. Stelly.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park, where interment will take place. The impressive funeral ritual of the Rebekah lodge will be given by Mrs. Loretta Schwitters, noble grand of the Carnation Rebekah lodge, assisted by her staff.

Mrs. Schwitters issued an order this morning that all members of the lodge meet at the Odd Fellows hall at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to receive their regalia.

The L. G. Seavern Company is in charge of arrangements.

From there she expects to come westward to the Hudson river, where she expects to enjoy the scenery of the Palisades. If time permits, she will go north to Toronto, then up the St. Lawrence river and around the Great Lakes to Chicago. The return trip will be made over the Canadian Pacific and by rail from Vancouver. She expects to be back about the middle of July.

Ohio University to Admit Married Folk

ATHENS, Ohio, June 22.—Married students will not be barred from Ohio University, according to Dr. Elmer Burrill, president of the institution, in commenting upon the ruling at Syracuse University that married students are barred from enrollment there.

"My only requirement is, however," asserted President Burrill, "that students be married as other people are—I have always frowned on clandestine matches among students."

Mayor Won't Let His Street Work Be First

RENO, June 22.—Reno's new mayor, E. E. Roberts, former congressman, whose first official action was to start the city hall clock ticks again after two years of dormancy, started the divorce city a second time when he halted street work in front of his home.

"I'm not going to have it said that the mayor's street was improved first. Get your men out of here," Roberts told the city engineer. They went.

Open Air Pageant Given As Feature Of Exercises At Wilson Avenue School

France and Italy came up and saluted the flag.

"One thought, one hope, one rapture stirs them all," spoke Winifred Louise Hunt, as America. And then they sang "America, the Beautiful," while birds flashed overhead, adding their eventide melodies to the glorious anthem, and the shadows deepened in the pine trees, until presently a cold half moon hung palely overhead.

Following another selection by the Wilson Avenue school orchestra, Christine Edwards rendered a violin solo, "Concerto No. 9, First Movement," by Ch. De. Beriot, accompanied on the piano by her little sister, Eleanor.

So delightfully did this talented girl render the difficult concerto that she was led, after an enthusiastic burst of applause, to give an encore, for which she chose "Minuet in G," by Beethoven.

Christine Edwards is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Edwards, 1213 North Brand boulevard. She is only 14 years of age, yet for the past year has been the pupil of the celebrated Calmon Luboviski, of Los Angeles. Eleanor Edwards, 12-year-old sister of Christine, who accompanied her on the piano, is also a talented musician, and it is believed that these two girls have a brilliant future before them.

Diplomas were presented by David J. Hibben, president of the board of education, to 155 graduates following an impressive graduation march.

The exercises were concluded with the singing of the song, "Recessional," by the class of 1923.

The pageant was directed by Miss Ada M. Sallstrom.

Number of Measures Signed by Governor

SACRAMENTO, June 22.—With the bill signing period expiring tonight at midnight, Governor Richardson today went actively to work clearing up the few remaining measures which he will approve.

The following bills had been signed up to noon:

AB 511—Appropriating $5000 for fire protection work in San Antonio canyon.
AB 512—Appropriating $3000 for fire prevention work in Glendale canyon.
AB 740—Appropriating $3000 for building fire trails in San Dimas canyon.
AB 741—Appropriating $2800 for fire protection in San Gabriel canyon.
AB 52—Revising the salaries in Mono county.
AB 351—Revising salaries of officers of Riverside county.

The governor also approved an appropriation of $10,000 for publication of the Blue Book under the supervision of the secretary of state.

Another measure was signed relating to internal revenue stamps. Hope for approval of the Mother's highway bill and the sample fish seine bill was virtually abandoned by supporters of the two measures this morning.

The governor has given no indication that he will sign either act.

Tries to Suicide in H. G. Wells' Home

LONDON, June 22.—A report of a sensational attempt by a woman to commit suicide in the home of H. G. Wells, novelist and historian, was printed in the Star today.

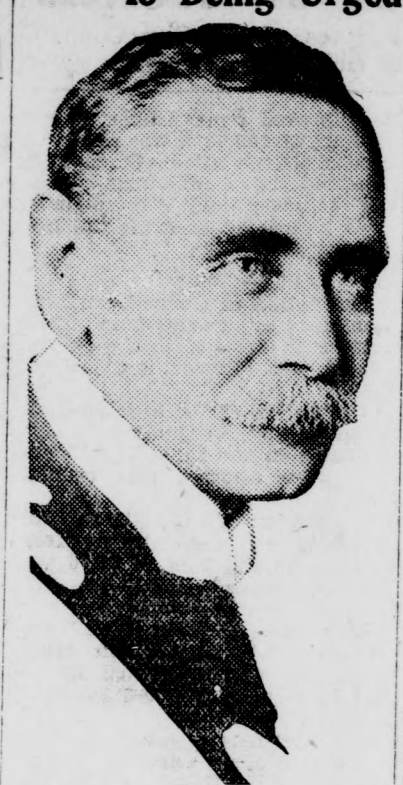

It is understood that the woman is Hedy Gatterman, an Austrian, who has translated a number of Wells' novels.

Friends of the woman said she had been acting strangely for some time. Before calling at the Wells home, she wrote a note saying she had become deeply moved by romantic passages in Wells' novels. She is recovering at the hospital.

Wells could not be reached. His secretary at first denied all knowledge of the alleged attempt at suicide, but later said it was partially true, although the affair was exaggerated.

At the Westminster infirmary, it was admitted that Miss Gatterman had been admitted as a patient "suffering from a wound in the throat."

Anti-Scandal Bill Is Being Urged

Sir Evelyn Cecil

Sir Evelyn Cecil, conservative member of the British House of Commons, has introduced in the house a bill which would bring a fine and imprisonment on the heads of editors who publish accounts of scandalous divorce proceedings, prohibiting the publication of medical and physiological details which might injure the public morals.

WAR BREAKS OUT IN KLAN'S RANKS

Threat to Reveal Secrets Causes Wizard to File Injunction Suit

ATLANTA, Ga., June 22.—War again raged within the Ku Klux Klan today when Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard, filed an injunction in the Fulton Superior court to restrain William Joseph Simmons, emperor and founder, from revealing the secrets of the newly-organized Knights of Kamelia.

As defendants the petition named Emperor Simmons, Rev. Caleb Ridley, J. O. Wood, editor of the Searchlight, and several others.

Bull Kills Dog That Saved Master's Life

MOULTRE, Ga., June 22.—John Carlton, 29, with his faithful bulldog, went into a field to drive a huge bull into a pasture when the animal became enraged and threw its 2000 pounds against him, hurling him to the ground with a ghastly hole torn in his side. The beast then backed away and started on another plunge for the helpless youth when the bulldog leaped to the animal's throat.

The wounded boy crawled to a fence and managed to pull himself to safety while the bull's attention was directed toward the dog. Then he looked back to see his mute friend hurled high in the air to fall near the bull, where a long horn was driven through the dog's body.

Rural Theatres to Keep Boys on Farm

STORRS, Conn., June 22.—Among plans of the Connecticut State Agricultural college to "keep them down on the farm," a "Little Theatre" project for rural communities is to be put under way by Professor H. A. Seckerson, head of the college English department, who believes Connecticut should follow the path of western and southern states. So the professor is to "college players" and point the way. Then he intends to have every graduate of the college trained to lead players in the community where the graduate may settle after graduation.

Governor Tells Why Clemency Refused

SACRAMENTO, June 22.—Governor Richardson today issued a statement in justification of his refusal to extend executive clemency to Lawrence Campbell, 19-year-old youth, who was hanged at San Quentin prison.

The governor branded as "a lie" the confession made by Charles Davis, pal of Campbell, clearing Campbell of the crime.

"Those who have sympathy to extend should give it to the poor little widow of the man so brutally murdered, who is left penniless and with a blind father to support," the governor declared.

Landlord Arrested on Eavesdropping Charge

BOSTON, June 22.—William Braverman, of Charlestown, owner of a house in Chelsea, was arrested on a charge of eavesdropping on complaint of the tenant, Mrs. Mary C. Breen. Braverman denied the charge, declaring he had come to the house to collect rent due him. The case is the first of its kind on record, and provides for a maximum penalty of two years in jail or a fine of $500.

ASKS C. C.'S HELP OVER DEPOT SITE

Seeks Indorsement of Plan To Locate Station at Los Feliz Road

W. T. Jefferson of Pasadena, owner of an important block of real estate in Glendale, has addressed the following communication to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, setting forth his ideas with regard to the location of the new Southern Pacific depot. Mr. Jefferson brought this matter up before the city council at its meeting last night and was informed by Mayor Spencer Robinson that the matter has already been settled. He asserts, however, that he is prepared to carry it further in an attempt to have the station located close to Los Feliz road.

"Chamber of Commerce, Glendale, California.

"Gentlemen—I would like to secure your indorsement of a petition I am about to circulate in Glendale, asking that the Glendale city authorities enforce the ordinances as regards Railroad street, and maintain that thoroughfare, so it can be used as a suitable entrance, a 'front door' to the new depot, that may be erected on any of the new sites, that may be chosen, beyond."

"For this street parallels and adjoins the Bentley lumber yards on the east, and runs from Los Feliz road back to the depot grounds, though at present unpaved, and apparently used as a private thoroughfare."

"If the city will keep this street clear, and maintain it properly, it can be used as an entrance to the depot, from Los Feliz, for the stage and auto passengers that disembark there, or drive in, as the case may be. And a suitable sign there, advertising that even an hour can be saved by taking or leaving the train at Glendale, will be seen by 30,000 to 40,000 automobilists, who pass there daily. Most of these automobilists are residents of Glendale, but are residents of towns tributary to this new depot."

"Your advertising committee will inform you that this advertising will be of more benefit to Glendale than the expenditure of your entire advertising appropriation."

Subscription List
"If the city authorities decide to spend money opening a new 'back door' to the new depot, instead of using Railroad street for the purpose it was originally intended, I will head a subscription list with $500 for the purpose of making this front door entrance to Glendale's new depot what it should be."

"For, if the front door to the new depot is right, and where it can be seen, the location of the new depot beyond will be right, or 'grow right' very speedily."

"For every resident of Glendale using this depot for through train service, there should be over a hundred who would 'save an hour' from the dozens of towns from mountains to ocean, that are tributary to this depot, and can reach it by stages that serve these towns and now pass this front door entrance on Los Feliz."

"Properly exploited there is nothing in Southern California equal in advertising value to this new 'front door' entrance to Glendale's new depot."

"If the business men of Glendale do not wish the new depot to be used by non-residents, why allow the new depot to be built at all?"

"If it is desired that non-residents use this depot so that it becomes secondary only to the Los Angeles, why not place the front door where it will be seen by the most people?"

"W. T. Jefferson.
"California Club, Los Angeles."

Mount Etna Eruption About Over, Belief

ROME, June 22.—Mount Etna's eruption waned in fury today and there was only a small trickle of lava advancing at the rate of six yards an hour. Rumbblings could still be heard in the interior of the volcano with an occasional explosion.

Army aviators who flew over the crater, through clouds of black smoke and sickening fumes, reported that lava was flowing from only some of the half dozen fissures that had opened since the eruption began last Sunday.

Although the agricultural loss is put at $10,000,000, King Victor Emanuel, who investigated on the scene, informed the authorities the catastrophe was less appalling than at first believed.

Linguaglossa was saved as though by a miracle. At latest reports the lava was 900 yards distant from the center of the town.

P. G. Stamm Expelled From Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, June 22.—The board of governors of the New York Consolidated Stock Exchange today announced the expulsion of P. G. Stamm, of P. G. Stamm & Company, as a regular member, for violation of regulations concerning trading.

An explanatory statement said the bureau of adding and accounting, through investigation, ascertained that a large part of P. G. Stamm & company's transactions were being executed elsewhere than on the floor of the exchange. Stamm was summoned to explain, but failed to appear.

In the meantime, however, he had written a letter to the Consolidated offering to withdraw from membership.

Suspense is the prologue to what is due you.

OLD DOBBIN IS STILL DOING WORK

Carriage Tire Sales Are Above All Expectations of Rubber Firm

AKRON, O., June 22.—Because America has become "motorized" and thinks of transportation today almost entirely in terms of automobiles, the horse has been pretty well relegated to the back-ground.

That the horse has not gone out of business, however, was brought to the attention of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company when its carriage-tire sales for the first months of this year exceeded all expectations.

The carriage-tire department started the year with more than a million feet of carriage-tire rubber on hand, but the first three months of the year found the stock depleted and a strong demand piling up orders for more.

In Ohio, for example, where the automobile and truck registration ranks third among the states of the union, with a total of $58,716 in 1922, the horse population was well over 900,000, and Ohio's demand for carriage tires is among the strongest in the country.

In the area included in the states of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Arkansas, and Tennessee the buggy is still a popular means of conveyance—a fact borne out by the steady sales there of carriage rubber.

The two states ranking foremost in the use of buggies, phaetons, carriages and other horse-drawn vehicles are the Kentucky bluegrass country and Tennessee—both regions noted for their fine horses.

Horse-Drawn Cabs
Pennsylvania also lines up among the buggy users. Not long ago a buggy manufacturer in the south had an unusually strong demand for his output among the residents of the mountainous regions of that state.

While part of the demand for carriage tires is the result of the manufacture of new vehicles, most of it can be assigned to renewal business—dealers refitting old vehicles with new solid tires.

Another feature of the carriage-tire business is reflected in the sales to users of horse-drawn cabs. There are several cities in the United States, besides many small towns and hamlets, where cabs instead of flivver busses still meet the trains. Among these cities are Charlestown, S. C., and quaint St. Augustine, Fla., where line-ups of what used to be called "hacks" await the traveler as he alights from his train.

Soul-Satisfying
"Sunday, the wife's condition precluded long trips, even by auto, but the views of the canyon in a quiet way were soul-satisfying and inspiring. Its popularity is growing and a large number of people are there at all times.

The weather in California and Arizona was hot and existence in stuffy sleepers not pleasant. The dust in certain spots on the desert filled the cars uncomfortably and was a negative argument for our splendid oiled roads. Getting into Colorado and Kansas, heavy rains had cooled the air and clouds reminded us of our high fog in Southern California.

"Wheat, beets, alfalfa and the adolescent corn seem to promise a good harvest. About Emporia, however, and east of there, many fields are flooded and houses just surrounded by water. In this section wheat, hay and corn have been ruined in the low bottoms.

Suit Case Missing
"In the final hurry to the train in Los Angeles, amid the good-byes and getting into the right car on the right section, some of our helpful friends, who loaded our grips into the car for us, evidently failed to get one of our suit-cases on board. We didn't miss it till we were leaving the canyon. We are hoping that the telegrams back to Los Angeles will succeed in its recovery and being forwarded to us in Philadelphia. Such is life!

"A fourteen-year-old boy who was on our train out of Los Angeles was missed by his parents just before reaching the canyon. They thought it was something of a joke and that they would hear of him being on another train. In some mysterious manner he had fallen off our train and his decapitated body was found by train men of a west-bound train, so the Pullman conductor told us.

Adjutant of N. P. Banks Post Says Encampment Is Marked Success

Echoes from the veterans' encampment at the Pacific Palisades at Santa Monica have been recorded by C. H. Clark, adjutant of the N. P. Banks post, G. A. R. In giving an account of activities of yesterday Mr. Clark says, "Yesterday the Southern California Veterans' Association completed the activities of what in many respects has been one of the most enjoyable of our thirty-six annual encampments. The attendance, while not as large as on some former occasions, has been characterized by a spirit of comradeship and a general feeling of entire satisfaction. Features were the election and installation of officers.

"Bean day was held Tuesday and saw a big crowd, fully 100, partaking of the substantial dinner under the direction of our veteran hostess, 'Our Mary Dunning.' The evening featured 'Pay Night' entertainment.

"An interesting part of yesterday's program was the meeting of the Half Century Club, consisting of those who have reached the golden wedding period with one companion and have not remarried. There were fifty or more present.

"On Friday we will break camp with pleasant memories and will look forward to next year."

PADDOCK FREAK SAYS FRENCHMAN

U. S. Sprint Champion Called Athletic Phenom By Paris Doctor

By HARRY R. FLORY
For International News Service

PARIS, June 22.—Charley Paddock, University of Southern California athlete and Olympic sprint champion, is a phenomenon. He is not physically well formed and his running form is contrary to all previously accepted rules of sprinting.

That was the conclusion of Dr. Bellin du Coteau, a Paris physician much interested in athletics, expressed after he saw Paddock compete in the International University games held in Paris recently.

"A competent physical director after examining Paddock undoubtedly would prescribe a medical, gymnastic, orthopaedic cure," Dr. Coteau said.

"One of Paddock's shoulders is lower than the other, the result either of a slight curvature of the spine or of a muscular irregularity.

"His chest is round and his shoulder blades are too prominent. He has defective nasal respiration and breathes through his mouth most of the time.

Charlie Too Chubby
"He is plainly fat. A swimmer might have some excuse to carry excess fat, but a sprinter—never. A racing horse would not be considered in condition if he carried such excess weight. But Paddock's arms and shoulders remind one of a 40-year-old matron in décolleté."

"In short, I have never seen any sprinter so poorly set up for speed."

The doctor was just as harsh in criticizing Paddock's running form. When Paddock runs he looks exactly like a "calf with two heads," Dr. du Coteau said.

"If I had a class of young sprinters I would teach them this way," he said.

"Watch Paddock closely. He commits most of the faults of a beginner, faults which you must avoid."

"But, nevertheless, he is the fastest man in the world!" In getting away with the crack of the gun Paddock resembles a boxer swinging his arms wildly much more than he resembles a man starting a sprint, the doctor charged. Furthermore, he runs "too high off the ground," and his final jump at the finish line can do nothing but retard his speed.

Might Be Faster
Dr. du Coteau admitted his impressions were formed after he had seen Paddock run only once, and that he had never been nearer than five meters to the American champion. But he insisted that his conclusions were absolutely correct and added that if Paddock chose to run according to old accepted standards of form he might be much faster than he is today.

"But you have to admire a man," the doctor concluded. "who says to you: 'I am going to equal the world's record for 100 yards,' and he does it, although a few minutes before he has also equaled the record for one hundred meters."

"Yes, he is a grand champion, but with all his faults I don't understand how he accomplishes such remarkable feats."

When a man commits a sin which others think they are incapable of doing, they shut their eyes to their own past.

In the office of the City Engineer of the City of Glendale, which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman Davis, the same was numbered Resolution No. 1938 and passed.

Councilman Davis introduced a resolution entitled, "A Resolution adopting certain plans for the improvement of Colorado street and other streets in the City of Glendale," which was read, and on his motion, seconded by Councilman Hall, the same was numbered Resolution No. 1939 and passed.

Councilman Horn introduced a resolution entitled, "A Resolution of the Council of the City of Glendale declaring its intention to improve portions of Colorado street, Lincoln, avenue, Verdugo road, Graceland street, Fischer street, Porter street, Adams street, Cedar street, Everett street, Glendale avenue, Jackson street, Kenwood street, Louise street, Brand boulevard, Orange street, Central avenue, Columbus avenue, Pacific avenue, Kenilworth avenue, San Fernando road, and of certain streets and alleys intersecting and terminating therewith, in the City of Glendale," which was read, and on his motion, seconded by Councilman Horn, the same was numbered Resolution No. 1934 and passed.

Councilman Davis introduced a resolution entitled, "A Resolution of the Council of the City of Glendale declaring its intention to improve a portion of Sycamore Canon road and of certain streets intersecting and terminating therewith in the City of Glendale and describing the district to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses of said improvement, and providing bonds for the payment of same," which was read, and on his motion, seconded by Councilman Hall, the same was numbered Resolution No. 1940 and passed.

Councilman Hall introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution of the Council of the City of Glendale declaring its intention to improve a portion of Sycamore Canon road and of certain streets intersecting and terminating therewith in the City of Glendale and describing the district to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses of said improvement, and providing bonds for the payment of same," which was read, and on his motion, seconded by Councilman Davis, the same was numbered Resolution No. 1941, and passed.

Contract Agreement

On motion of Councilman Davis, seconded by Councilman Horn, the mayor was directed to execute on behalf of the City of Glendale a certain agreement dated May 15, 1923, between the Pacific Electric Railway Company and the City of Glendale. Clerk was directed to record same.

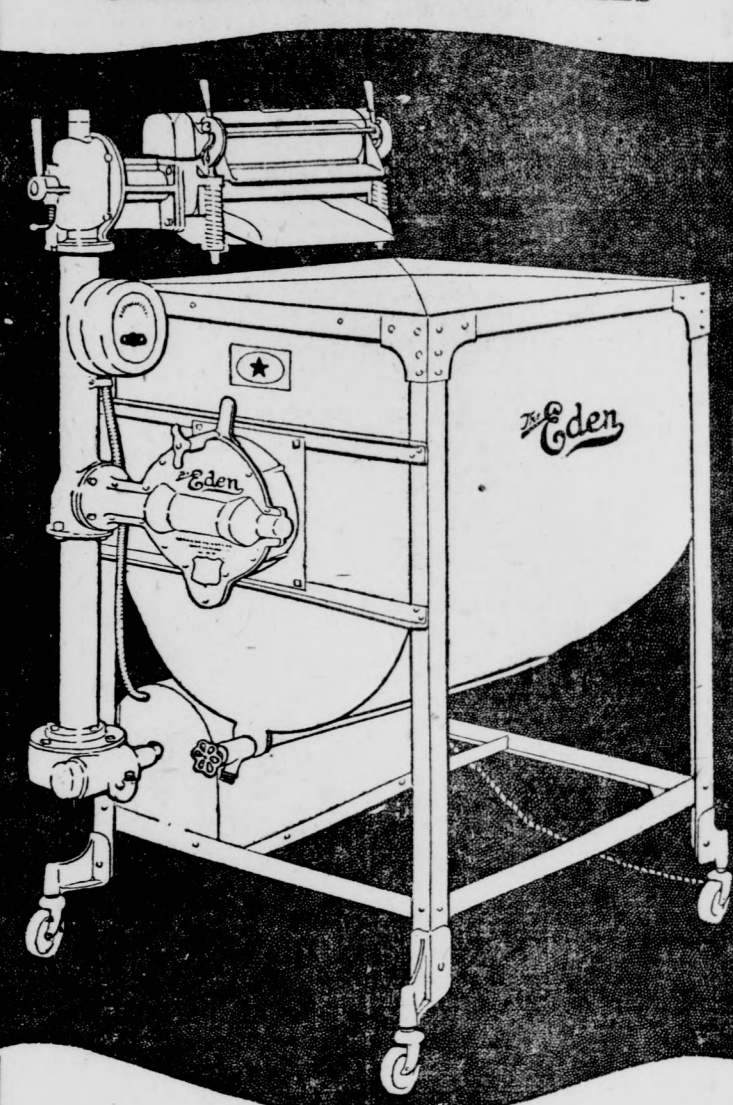

Adjourned.

ROTARIANS PRAY FOR G. HUNTLEY

Club's Representatives Send Word of Convention at St. Louis, Mo.

Glendale's Rotary club meeting yesterday was of three-fold interest, first being thoughts for their fellow member John G. Huntley. Rev. E. E. Ford offered prayer and told of "Jack's" request that the club lend its spiritual support to his recovery.

A message from the members of the club in attendance at the St. Louis convention of Rotary International was read, stating that Roy L. Kent, J. I. Wernette, J. E. Phillips and George B. Karr were having a great time at the session.

The third feature of the luncheon was an informal talk by Dr. Edward S. Merrill, in which he stated that it was the plan of himself and associates to contract to keep people well.

"The average sick days per worker per year in the United States are nine. In California this average is only six. If we can cut it down to three and save that much production and salary money, there is no question but that our system will be a success. Large insurance companies already are providing hospitalization, believing it's better to keep people alive than to let them die for neglect."

Friendship Needed
Among the informal talks Rev. Ernest Ford declared that you cannot tie men together politically, commercially or socially, but by the Rotary spirit of friendship.

R. E. Olin reported on the finances of the club while James M. Rhodes told of a trip to San Francisco in 13 hours. Principal George U. Moyle of the high school advised that the community center project be left in abeyance.

Attorney Owen C. Emery, Ed Nisle and P. L. Hatch were named as a special program committee next week by J. Herbert Smith, who presided in the absence of President Karr.

Visitors included J. Will Johnson of Pueblo, Colo., who reported he was returning to Colorado for the summer but had to come back where he had invested upwards of $100,000.

Claude C. Wilde and guest of Cisco, Texas, were present. William H. Leet and Charles Marcy of Cincinnati, Ohio; Arthur Helman of Pasadena and Edward S. Merrill of Los Angeles were other Rotarians from out of town.

Kenneth Smith of Flintridge and Jesse V. Rea of Glendale were introduced.

High School Graduation Exercises Held Last Night; 178 Are Awarded Diplomas

Wimmer, Maurice Widdows, Ed Stockbridge and Alton Marshall. The glue clubs were trained by Mrs. Florence Parker and the program was arranged by Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, instructors in the music department at Glendale Union high school.

The Maxfield Parrish stage setting carried out the idea of William A. Howe, who donated the theatre for the occasion. Its impressionistic effect was regarded as one of the most beautiful ever seen in Glendale.

Senior Procession
The senior procession, which was greeted with applause, was led by four girls from the junior class: Miss Margaret Longley, Miss Dorothy Houston, Miss Katherine Stoff and Miss Florence McLaughlin. Senior girls were attired in white and carried bouquets of dark pink Russell roses, senior boys wore white trousers and dark coats: Mrs. Helen S. Moir and Earl T. Brown, class teachers, brought up the rear of the procession.

"Life As An Adventure" was the subject of the address by Dr. Edwin Mims, member of the faculty of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. He compared life to a battle, a journey, a race, and a voyage and urged all graduates to continue their education until they had obtained the necessary training.

"It is a great pleasure to participate in what seems to be the annual festival of our American communities," he remarked in his introduction. "You show by your presence here that you believe in your high school, that you believe in education."

Do Impossible
"I should like to see some of the members of this class do things that citizens of this town, high school teachers and their colleagues now say is impossible. I should like to see them plan their lives upon the basis of doing that which is unexpected. I should like to awaken in them some conception of the life of adventure."

As illustrations of the life of adventure, Dr. William Mims referred to the "Mission Play" and "The Covered Wagon." He said that they made plain the fact that California owes its existence to men of adventure.

"The life of adventure," he emphasized, "is the only life that counts in the making of new paths, new kingdoms, new standards and new ideas."

"A community may realize to some extent what the life of adventure is when it plans great things—as you have done when you planned your new high school. You, tonight, are dreaming great things. There is no person in this audience, however young or however old, who may not follow with advantage the life of adventure."

Fight Brave Battles
"There is something in all of us that responds to the thought of the soldier. There is something that causes our hearts to beat faster when we hear the stories of the battles of democracy. There is no one who does not hear with emotion the story of the heroes of all nations, and particularly the English-speaking people."

"There is a courage that is just as great as ever displayed upon the battlefield. I could tell you story after story of college boys and girls who have fought as brave a battle as was ever fought on the battlefield."

"I want to say to the graduates here tonight that any boy or girl who has the proper fighting spirit, can get the best education that is in the range of the American people. If you have the fighting spirit, you can overcome any kind of difficulty."

"The time is past when men can fight the battle of life with crude instruments of former times. There isn't a single profession that hasn't advanced its standards in the past twenty-five years. No amount of piety, no amount of courage can take the place of the trained soldier."

"The man who meets defeat, frequently stops, but the man who knows how to use defeat profits by it. Battles and races are lost in the same spirit that they are won. The best thing that sometimes happens to a man is to be defeated. And yet, nine times out of ten man can't stand defeat."

Continue Education
As an illustration of the conquest of the obstacles of life, Dr. Mims referred to Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress." He compared Pilgrim's journey through the Slough of Despond, around the Rocks of Despair and over the Hill of Difficulty to the pilgrims of the Celestial Railroad—"who took a fast express to heaven, but got sidetracked."

In pleading forcefully for graduates to continue their education, Dr. Mims asserted: "You have gone a little way up the mountain, you have gone a little way along the road of life but you have just gotten started."

Comparing life to a voyage, Dr. Sims referred to the necessity of crossing the Atlantic to get to Europe. He admitted that he had been terribly sea-sick upon his first trip but had found the mal-dormer worth enduring for the later experiences.

"The only contemptible thing on the sea is a derelict," he remarked. "And yet that is the condition of a great many lives."

An appeal to the graduates to "carry on" and rebuild the idealism shattered by the World War, he drew the conclusion of the address.

"This world needs, as a world never needed before, men and women with the qualities of courage, hope, faith and idealism—and all of these combined with the spirit of adventure. Fifteen or twenty years from now we will come into a great age. I feel it and I know it!"

Harding Appoints Immigration Boss

President Harding has appointed Major Henry H. Curran, New York city, to succeed Robert E. Tod as U. S. commissioner of immigration of the port of New York in charge of Ellis Island. He was Republican candidate for mayor of the metropolis in 1921.

MONTROSE READY TO GREET SUNDAY VISITORS

Sparr Heights Folks Active
In Preparation for Week-end Crowds

Sparr Heights is a busy place this week-end, preparing for the large crowds expected to visit the hills Sunday, the Knights of Columbus picnic being one of the big attractions. The community center building donated by the Barum-Walters company is being put in shape and a photographer today was seen making a picture of this headquarters for a big tract being developed in Montrose and Glendale.

C. A. Haskins, vice-president and manager of the Bank of Montrose, is away this week on a motor vacation to the south. He did not reveal his plans to members of the bank staff.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Howard and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Mead and family are going to forsake Montrose next Monday on a fishing trip to Humboldt county in northern California. Both men are in business here.

Improvements Under Way
B. C. Morrison, an oil man who is developing a home place in La Canada, is buying supplies in Montrose for cement sidewalks and curbs.

E. K. Barnard of Honolulu avenue is improving his place with a garage at the present time while A. F. Kraft, a neighbor, is completing the plumbing in his bungalow.

Work will be started on the Montrose school immediately, according to W. E. Luther of San Fernando, the low bidder, who has contracted to erect the building for $21,850. It will contain three rooms and an auditorium. The Tujunga Electric company will do the wiring.

Whale Steaks Are Popular in Northwest

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Whale steaks are making a hit in the north Pacific, gaining such popularity that the demand greatly exceeds the supply, Vice-Consul Newcomb, at Victoria, reports to the department of commerce.

Cooked in cans to a tenderness unknown in other fried delicacies, whale steaks are rapidly replacing other foods. For some time whale steaks were ignored, but scarcity of other foods, their cheapness and deliciousness have brought them into general usage.

Enlarged fishing, canning and cooking plants are being built this season to care for the increased demand. Practically all whale meat now canned at Victoria is shipped to England for distribution.

Philadelphia Named President of Rotary

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 22.—Guy Gundaker of Philadelphia was the only man placed in nomination for president of the international organization of Rotarians here this afternoon when the names for the office were officially received. The withdrawal of three others who had been in the field earlier in the convention assures Gundaker's election tomorrow.

WOMAN TRIES TO RAM HUSBY'S CAR

Scratches Policeman's Face
After Arrest on Charge
Of Recklessness

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Because two women in an automobile tried to run their car into a machine in which rode their husbands at San Pedro early today, one of the women, who gave her name as Mrs. Isabel Dickinson, is in the city jail here charged with reckless driving.

Also, Sergeant Day, of the San Pedro police, had his face so badly scratched by Mrs. Dickinson while he was aiding Patrolman C. R. Giffin to bring her to Los Angeles, that he was forced to go to the receiving hospital here for treatment.

According to the San Pedro police, the two women drove to the harbor city last night, their husbands trailing them in another machine. Mrs. Dickinson, who was driving the machine in which the women were riding, the police say, started cutting capers about the machine carrying their husbands. When an effort was made to arrest Mrs. Dickinson she put up a struggle.

Farm Children Stand Highest in Studies

DES MOINES, Ia., June 22.—The students that stand highest in their high school classes in this State come from the farms, according to the results of a survey made by Professor Charles Deich, of Simpson College.

Professor Deich bases his report upon information from 316 high school principals, who supervise 6,000 high school pupils in this State.

Of the 316 honor students 217 live in the country. Girls outnumber boy honor students, there being 220 girls to 96 boys leading their classes. The feminine students also average higher grades than the boys. The young ladies averaged 95 per cent in eleven subjects, while the boys could attain that average in only four subjects.

The blue-eyed, brown-haired types lead their fellow-students, the survey shows. Only five "carrot tops" were listed in the honor student rolls.

The ordinary American family led in the best pupil products. One hundred and eighteen of the students came from families of the third class, 41 from the fourth class and only 32 from the independently wealthy.

Petroleum Output in California Increases

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Production of petroleum in California during 1922 showed an increase of 23,739,632 barrels over the 1921 production, according to annual report just issued by R. L. Colom, State Oil and Gas Supervisor.

Total production was 138,326,490 barrels, as compared with 114,496,850 barrels for 1921, the report stated. The gasoline output for California last year was 693,497,742 gallons. The report said in part:

"The gain of about 24,000,000 barrels in the production of petroleum is attributed to the rapid and intensive development of the Huntington Beach and Santa Fe oil fields in Los Angeles and Orange counties."

Jap Preacher Starts
Christian Campaign

TOKIO, June 22.—The opening of a third campaign to interest Japanese in a new religion was begun in Tokio recently by Mr. Kaiseki Matsumura, a veteran Christian preacher.

"The fundamental basis of all religions is no more than reverence to God, elevation of spiritual life, universal brotherhood and long life," declares Matsumura.

Matsumura is 65 years old and began his studies as a student of Confucianism. Since he became converted to Christianity he has written more than 70 books on religion.

Will Address Legion
On Japanese Problem

Release of 'Smiling Girl' Bandit Sought

CHICAGO, June 22.—Release on writ of habeas corpus of Fred Thompson, the sex masquerader, his "husband," Frank Carrick, and his legal wife, Marie Clark, held as suspects in the murder of Richard C. Tesmer, was asked in court today, the fourth since their arrest. It was said the attorney who asked the writs had been retained by Mrs. Earl Dear, wife of a bandit hanged here last year.

Slavian Father Gets
Five Sons in One Day

PARIS, June 22.—According to Le Matin, which publishes a dispatch from Rome, all records in paternity have been beaten by a well-to-do farmer at Laybach, in South Slavia, who became the father of five sons in one day. His wife presented him with twins, and a mistress, who lived in the same house, gave birth to triplets, all on the same day.

Dr. Russell to Boost City at Realty Meet

Dr. Jessie A. Russell, the official representative of the Glendale Realty Board, left this morning for Cleveland, Ohio, where she will attend the annual convention of the National Real Estate association that meets next week.

Dr. Russell took with her 3000 of the Peacock advertising booklets that were authorized by the Realty Board at a recent meeting, and will distribute these among the delegates from all parts of the country who will be at the convention. The booklet, which is of a handy size, easily carried, bears on one cover a picture of Glendale's peacock, and on the other a picture of a woodland scene in the heart of the city. The data contained in the booklet are brief and condensed in form, but covers the vital facts regarding Glendale.

Find Big Nuggets on Ocean Side of Range

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The proverbial goose which laid the golden eggs, did not roost on the ocean side of the Coast Ranges in California even though the finding of large nuggets tends to prove it did, according to Government geologists.

The finding of large nuggets has led prospectors to search without success for the veins from which these nuggets were loosened by the weather and washed into stream beds. These nuggets, geologists state, came from rich superficial pockets in very small veins, and that no large and rich deposits are likely to be found by deep mining.

Money Is Raised for U. S. School in Tokio

CHICAGO, June 22.—The African Shebas are more modest than American girls, in the opinion of Mrs. Rose Rosehart, who recently returned to the States from Sierra Leone, West Africa.

"The African women wear clothes that 'cover up,'" Mrs. Rosehart explained, "and are much more modest than young American women."

The flappers of Africa, which species is rare, according to Mrs. Rosehart, use blue paste instead of rouge. Mrs. Rosehart is a missionary and was stationed in West Africa the last six years.

British Sleuths to Study 'Eyebrow' Code

LONDON, June 22.—Scotland Yard, that great and venerable headquarters of the British police force, has now an eyebrow code. This new "wink to me only with thine eyes" code, the invention of a Chinese police officer, is said to have been translated into English, and is about to be forwarded to police departments throughout England and America.

British detectives are said to be looking forward to the time when eyebrow classes are mentioned in orders, and the sight of the "Big Four" of Scotland Yard sitting and solemnly "eyebrowing" to each other for the benefit of their younger colleagues would certainly be interesting, if not even amusing.

BIG FLOOD DAMAGE

TOKIO, June 22.—Complete reports today indicated that huge damage has been caused by floods in the Shimonoseki region. A party of rescuers was buried alive at Moji, where a score lost their lives in landslides. Property loss will reach several million dollars, it is estimated.

The most effective correction is self correction.

Harding to Discuss Railroads Tonight

content to let the issue go to the people along the lines he laid down in that address.

Here, in the gateway to the west, the president tonight will deliver the second of his scheduled speeches, dealing with the railroad problem. He will stress the necessity of consolidating the country's lines into a few big systems, and suggest some legislative remedies which he hopes will be adopted by the next congress.

Upon arriving here today the president was taken immediately upon a two hour motor drive about the city. This afternoon he planned to relieve the monotony of speaking and train riding with a golf match.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts Of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also give your kidneys a little salt from four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys lean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advertisement.

WILL CELEBRATE ARTIST'S SUCCESS

Music Club at Banquet to Honor Progress Made by Local Student

One of the features of the Glendale Music club banquet Friday night, June 29, will be the celebration of the success of Miss Hazel Linkogel, Glendale's young violinist, in the east, according to Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, club president. Miss Linkogel is the first beneficiary of the club and in receiving the news of Miss Linkogel's success in the preliminary tryouts last Sunday, Mrs. Jones said, "We are very proud of the success of Miss Linkogel, the first young artist to be assisted by the Glendale Music club's scholarship fund. In my mind the establishment of this fund and the assistance given Miss Linkogel is the biggest thing the club has ever done."

"We will await with interest word from the final tryout Sunday before Leopold Auer and are confident that Miss Linkogel will make a splendid record."

A board meeting of the club was held this morning to complete final plans for the banquet. Beheymier Absent

Because of a recent accident which delayed his going east L. E. Beheymier, Los Angeles impresario, who was to have been the honored guest and speaker at the banquet will be unable to be present. He was to have introduced the modern groups of the program and the club members are regretting that he cannot be present.

Interesting features of the program will be the speaking by Merle Armitage, impresario of Los Angeles; violin selections by Calmon Luboviski; presentation of composition by Charles H. Marsh, head of the music department of Redlands university; the presentation of compositions of Gertrude Ross by Jessie McDonald Patterson, soprano.

Mrs. Catherine Shank, soprano, will be the only Glendale artist on the program. Her appearance is of particular interest because she is a charter member and past officer of the club.

Mrs. Jones announced this morning that all reservations must be made by Tuesday night. They are open for all club members and guests and for any one interested in hearing the program.

Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Helen Campbell, Glendale 1150-J.

Three Witnesses Called to Reveal Details About
Seattle Sale

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Depositions of Dave Fleming, J. O. Moore and W. D. Hubbard telling what they know regarding the purchase of the Seattle ball club by Charles Lockard and Walter Killefer will be taken tomorrow at the office of P. H. Burdick.

William H. McCarthy, president of the Pacific Coast League and Harry L. Stafford, arrived today from San Francisco to be on hand for the hearing. They will leave here tomorrow evening for San Francisco as McCarthy will have to be present at a suit brought there by the Seattle ball club in an effort to force him to seat Lockard as a director of the Coast League.

"We wanted to get the deposition of William Banning, who is alleged to have purchased Killefer and Lockard's holdings, said McCarthy. "He is in Europe now."

"Mr. Stafford has been notified by James Gibson, attorney for William Wigton, that the latter is cruising at sea, but expects to arrive in New York tomorrow."

"I believe the suit will be thrown out of court Monday," McCarthy said.

Short One Vote
"If, by any chance, I was ordered to seat Lockard, I could not comply. The rules of the league state that five votes are necessary, and all Lockard has mustered are four."

"When Mr. Lockard signed his deposition, two days after it was made in front of witnesses, he changed it in a vital point. He has the right to make corrections. He stated that after getting $135,000 from William Wrigley, Jr., that he had $13,000 left after purchasing Jim Boldt's stock and paying bills. He wrote into the statement that he had loaned John Sullivan, Seattle attorney, $6,800 out of the remaining $13,000. Sullivan told me that he had received the money from a Seattle bank."

While students of twelve nationalities attend the American school, it is operated as the result of work of Americans in Tokio.

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAYS' NEWS

GEN. LAWRENCE D. TYSON
The expected entrance of Gen. Lawrence D. Tyson in the senatorial race in Tennessee in 1924 presages an interesting political battle. It is considered probable that General Tyson will oppose

GEN. L. D. TYSON

Senator John K. Shields for the Democratic nomination.

General Tyson has not formally announced his candidacy, but has made it known to friends his intention to run.

The general is an ardent admirer of former President Wilson and was an advocate of the ratification of the League of Nations with reservations. This is in contrast to Shields, who was noted as one of the irreconcilables who fought the president and the League to the last ditch.

General Tyson is a lawyer, manufacturer and soldier. He is a graduate of West Point. He was an officer in the Spanish-American war and commanded the Fifty-ninth brigade of the Third division when that organization broke the Hindenburg line in the World war.

His only son, McGhee Tyson, gave his life in the World war, while serving as a naval flier of the British coast.

Judge Nathaniel D. Bachmann of Tennessee supreme court, former Governor Malcolm R. Patterson and former Senator Luke Lea, are the others mentioned as possible candidates.

Colorado's a bit proud of the fact that the only native son in the United States senate, Alva P. Adams is that man. He was named recently by Governor Sweet to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator D. Nicholson. He is the first Colorado-born man to fill such a post.

Adams comes from a family of political famous men. His father was three times governor of his state and an uncle, Billy Adams, has been Democratic boss of Southern California for many years.

The new senator is known principally as a lawyer, but is a brilliant speaker and a great student. Physically he is small—about five feet four inches tall.

He was born at Del Norte, Colo., October 29, 1875. Later his family moved to Alamosa. Adams received his high school education in Pueblo and on his graduation from Yale returned to Pueblo to practice law. He is married and has four children, two boys and two girls.

His new post is his first public office. He is known as a progressive and says that world co-operation for peace cannot be achieved unless the United States joins the league of nations.

Ali Pasha's Plunder Found
By Greek Excavators
In Castle Site

By CONSTANTINE STEPHANOPOULOS
For International News Service

SOFIA, June 22.—Tucked away in the corner of the Balkans excavators have been at work unheralded, turning up treasures which approach those of Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb.

Ali Pasha's treasures have been found. Though not nearly as ancient as Tut-Ankh-Amen's treasures, nevertheless they are of considerable interest and great value.

The first Balkan war gave Yannina, the capital of Epirus, to the Greeks, though ethnically it is an Albanian town and region and its history, at least for the last five hundred years, that is, since the first entry of the Turks in the Balkans, has been Albanian. In fact, and in justice to the Albanians, the ancient and beautiful city of Yannina, should have been the present capital of the sturdy Arnauts, rendered famous by no other than Byron himself, who a hundred years ago was the guest of honor of Ali Pasha, so called, of Yannina, who at that time was practically an independent chief and whom the sultans of Turkey feared to garrison, as Byron has well described by these lines taken from his "Childe Harold":

"To greet Albania's chief, whose dread command is lawless law; for with a bloody hand He sways a nation, turbulent and bold."

Regal Splendor
Byron has on many occasions referred to the splendor with which Ali Pasha has surrounded himself, as he was enabled to personally see it and be the recipient of it himself, for the fierce Albanian ruler considered it a great honor to be accorded a visit by the most popular Englishman of that day. The plunder Ali possessed was known to be very rich, and many researches were made since his time to discover it. But it was not until the Greek archaeologists should find the remnants of it, which are rich enough as they are. Thus, after a careful digging of the premises which constituted his palace and castle, other things, sixteen boxes filled with gold coins, or some 55,000 Egyptian dracms, besides many gold ornaments and even Oriental rugs. The total value of the articles discovered is estimated at more than a hundred million dollars. What seems an exceedingly curious fact in connection with

EGYPT SEETHING WITH DISCONTENT

British Brand of Liberty
Fails to Satisfy All of Population

CAIRO, June 22.—Party leaders more so in Egypt than elsewhere, while agreeing that Egypt should be free and independent, do not agree with one another. While there may be nothing peculiar about that, there is something very peculiar about the Egyptian political situation.

Primarily Egypt is, according to the British Government's declaration of February 28, 1922, an independent and sovereign State. This has been recognized with tongue in cheek by most of the capillary powers.

When the declaration was finally understood in Egypt the Egyptian party leaders maintained, with no little heat, that this was a peculiar sort of freedom and independence. They had, they said, believed that the British Government had taken the British Protectorate away and given to the Egyptians "freedom, independence and sovereignty."

With many misgivings and considerable wrangling among themselves the Egyptians proceeded to formulate a constitution and an electoral law; and some time in November next the Egyptian Senate and Legislative Assembly will meet.

They will appoint a delegation to negotiate with the British Government concerning the conditions demanded as a price of Egyptian independence. The Zaghulists will win the elections. But even if they did not win, it would make little difference. The Adlyists are just as strongly opposed to the conditions which make independent Egypt a vassal state.

Assuming that events take the course indicated, an Egyptian official delegation will request the British plenipotentiaries to take the 1922 declaration away and bring back something which, at least can be discussed. This, of course, will render the 1922 declaration null and void.

Embarrass British
What then? The Egyptians will tell the English that if they want Egypt they must take it and govern it, but the Egyptians will do everything in their power to this excavation is the discovery in the same locality of twenty-five human skeletons, which may be explained by Byron's words again:

"Fierce are Albania's children, their wrath how deadly!"

DINNER STORIES

Loud laughter echoed and re-echoed in the garden ice cream parlor where men of all denominations gathered to drown their sorrows in sodas and other vile concoctions. A man was cursing loudly and a little, golden-haired lassie came in and with tear-filled eyes walked over to the loud-mouthed individual.

"Daddy, please come home," she sobbed. "Mother is ill."

"Serve 'er right," howled the man, pushing her away.

"Please—please—" the little girl sobbed again, "mother is dying."

"Let 'er die." And with a muttered oath he turned his back on her and ordered another nut sundae.

"But, daddy, there are two men breaking into the cellar." With a horrible shriek the man leaped across the room and out—Washington Congar's Paw.

At a camp meeting held in a southern state many of the people attended the services barefooted, recited Judge. One evening in response to an altar call, a tall farmer, knelt at the "mourner's bench." A near-sighted preacher kneeling behind him noticed his bare feet and, placing his hands on the heels, said solemnly: "God bless these little boys!"

A gushing matron was getting up an afternoon affair and called on a somewhat elderly damsel who had promised to assist, according to the Pittsburg "Chronicle-Telegraph."

"Now," pattered the matron, "I have secured a sweet girl to pour tea. You, my dear, will look after the slices of lemon."

"What am I to infer from that?" asked the other, acidly.

A prominent playwright was in Atlantic City supervising one of his plays. One night he saw an old scrub woman bent over her work.

Thinking to give her a treat, the playwright stopped and asked her: "Would you like to go to a theater tomorrow night?"

The woman looked up, studied his face earnestly, then said: "I can't tomorrow night. Can't you get some other night off?"—Chicago Tribune.

embarrass the British administrators. If it would perhaps be better if the February declaration were annulled after the Egyptian Parliament met, so as to allow the Anglo-Egyptian delegates to start again from the beginning. There might then be reasonable hopes of success. But if the negotiations are to be confined to a set of conditions which every Egyptian political party has denounced the farce will end in tragedy.

TO FREE CHURCH OF JAZZ MUSIC

Music Club Chairman Has Organized Kansas City
Folk in Project

By DOUGLAS G. TINSLEY
For International News Service

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 22.—Jazz music is to be run from another stronghold—the church—if Mrs. Grace Wiedmayr Maboe, chairman of church music of the National Federation of Music Clubs, has her way.

Mrs. Maboe has organized the church musicians of Kansas City into a body to work for the general uplift of church music. She recently stopped in Kansas City on her way to the convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs at Asheville, N. C. Her home is in Los Angeles.

"The jazz melodies used in so many of our Sunday schools and churches are an abomination," she said. She also condemned the popular hymns of the Billy Sunday type.

That kind of music is not going to hold the young people in the church," she said. "It already has failed at doing this."

Mrs. Maboe made a plea for the Sunday schools and churches to go back to the hymns of Bach, Handel and Beethoven.

Better Music Needed
"Better music will bring better persons to the church," she declared. "The music service is as the sermon. The trouble is that too many ministers don't know good music. They sing the same ten or twelve hymns throughout the year."

Mrs. Maboe said the church members should become familiar with the fine old hymns of Luther's day, and then they would learn to enjoy them. Her plans for improvement in church music include:

A compulsory music course in divinity schools.

The organization of the church musicians in every city.

The establishment of music libraries in churches.

The opening of church bureaus with which singers could enroll.

NEW HARDING TRIP
WASHINGTON, June 22.—Shortly after he returns from Alaska this summer, President Harding contemplates a second and hurried speaking trip to the middle west, which officials revealed today.

Having been served with a wedge of some yellow substance, the husband poked at it cautiously with his fork, and finally turned it over heavily on his plate, asking:

"What is this?"

"Pound cake. What of it?" the wife replied.

"Nothing," said the husband. "I thought my section weighed more than a pound. What are you going to make next?"

"Marble cake," said the wife defiantly.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JUNE 22, 1923

Adjacent Towns Protest Moving Of Station From Site Close To Los Feliz

THE depot question boiled up again in the City Council last night when W. T. Jefferson, a Pasadena capitalist who owns part of a block of property on Los Feliz road, Glendale, appeared and presented the case of the thousands of people who would come to Glendale from adjacent towns to catch their trains from the local station rather than go into Los Angeles to do so, with the attendant expense and loss of time. Mr. Jefferson, in addressing the Council, stated that there are 200,000 people in the territory surrounding Glendale who would use the station here, coming from Hollywood, Pasadena and other cities over stage lines or by automobile, and saving at least an hour's time by coming here instead of going in to the terminal at Los Angeles.

The location of the Glendale station close to Los Feliz road, the traffic artery that carries the greater part of the automobile travel between the mountains and the sea, would, he claimed, permit travelers to catch their trains much more easily than would be the case if the depot were to be erected at Cerritos street, and he offered to head a subscription list with $500 and to raise the rest of the sum required to pave Railroad street, a street that lies alongside the Southern Pacific property, and that would afford an easy means of access to the station if it were built at Eulalia street.

Mayor Spencer Robinson informed Mr. Jefferson that the matter had already been closed by the Council, and that no further action could be taken.

Pasadena's Plea
Mr. Jefferson's plea was prompted largely by an article that appeared in The Pasadena Star-News of yesterday, a portion of which follows:

"The running time between Southern California and all points North on the Southern Pacific has virtually been shortened an hour by the recent decision of that company to build an enlarged depot at Glendale and stop all through and local trains there, so that the residents of Glendale, Pasadena, Hollywood and the surrounding territory, can embark and disembark there, instead of at Los Angeles."

"When the new depot is finished, Pasadena can leave their homes for the North-bound train almost an hour later than is necessary now, on account of the traffic conditions in Los Angeles. On their return journey, by leaving the train at Glendale, they can reach their homes by auto, before their train arrives in the depot at Los Angeles."

"Unfortunately for the entire success of this new depot plan, controversy has arisen as to where it should be located. Instead of having the depot located where it is at present, where it is fairly accessible, or can be made so for stage line traffic as well as automobiles, certain influences are endeavoring to have the depot located back from the main stage lines, so that its value to Pasadena and Hollywood residents would be greatly minimized. For not all the users of this new depot will arrive there in automobiles. And many a resident of Hollywood, Ocean Park or Pasadena would leave the train at Glendale, for the purpose of taking the passing stage lines to their homes."

P. O. LOCATION IS LUNCHEON TOPIC

Site on Broadway Adjacent To Kenwood Favored
By Association

The location of the new post-office was the principal topic of discussion yesterday noon at 201 East Harvard street at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Advancement Association.

The new postoffice should be located on Broadway in the vicinity of Kenwood street, according to several expressions of opinion.

P. J. Hayselden, of 901 South Glendale avenue, who endorsed this location, mentioned as handicaps the fact that the required hundred foot frontage at 300 per front foot would cost $30,000, that the building would cost at least $25,000 and that an additional $15,000 would be required for fixtures. He commented on the fact that this would make the total valuation about $70,000 and that the United States Postoffice department insisted upon a clause in the lease permitting them to vacate rented property upon giving ninety days' notice. As an illustration of this privilege, he mentioned the vacation of the present postal quarters.

"It is up to some business man to figure this thing with a high enough interest to cover the risk," he suggested. "I would like to see the post office there, but I would not care to handle it."

Tells C. C. Attitude
The Chamber of Commerce, according to Mr. Hayselden, who is one of its directors, is showing no preference toward the location of the new postoffice. He said that he knew several of his colleagues on the board of directors were in favor of the location mentioned. He added that he did not believe any civic organization was opposed to this suggested location provided the necessary 12,000 square feet of floor space could be made available.

"The east side is going to be left very badly unless we do something," warned C. E. Stanley of 108 North Everett street. "I think it is up to the east side people to get next to themselves. Those people down there never helped us and never will."

The possibility of Glendale entering Los Angeles under the borough system was the subject of discussion. A motion was made by C. F. Stuart of 638 East Broadway and seconded by J. F. McGlashan of 410 East Maple street that the association go on record "opposed to annexation in any form."

Favors Borough System
The question was being put to a vote when S. C. Kinch of 328 North Brand boulevard interrupted the proceedings. He stated that, so far as he had been able to judge from its operation in New York City, the borough system was a very good form of metropolitan government. He opposed voting upon the subject without further information. This attitude was endorsed by both R. M. Brown of 416 North Kenwood street and Mr. Stanley.

Owing to the vacation season, a vote revealed the desire of a majority of those present to discontinue regular weekly meetings for the summer. C. W. Ingledue of (Continued on page 6)

Stores Feature Wares Today In Preparation For Saturday Shoppers

By GIL A. COWAN

SATURDAY is shopping day in Glendale! Today the merchants and the markets are featuring their wares in the advertising columns of The Glendale Evening News. They depend on the readers to respond and give the city of homes a bigger and better business. Every day is good, but Saturday proves the best and, like the market days of the old country, the people are attracted to the marts of trade to prepare for the coming week. Foodstuffs are particularly placed to the fore by the grocers and meat markets and vegetable men. They assemble the very best of the week's produce for you to choose from, while the other mercantile establishments are making special inducements to the housewives who are among the throng. There are many things for men also listed in today's advertisements.

Prices in Glendale will be found more favorable in most instances and equally as low as Los Angeles establishments, comparison will prove. You will find that Uncle John and Aunt Mary are right about "trading at home." During the publication of those clever little quips in The Glendale Evening News a real estate man confided to me that his wife had been converted to buying in Glendale. This was how it was done:

Making a list of needs to be bought she canvassed the Los Angeles stores and got their prices. She then returned to Glendale, and found the very same articles could be purchased at a saving of fifty-eight cents, not including the carfare. Incidentally her husband saved the five-dollar bill he had wagered that better bargains are to be found among friends here at home.

Finds Lower Prices
As far as foodstuffs are concerned, the prices here are no higher than in Los Angeles, and in some instances lower, she found, for the stores are owned principally by firms doing similar business in the city and getting their supplies from the same sources.

It is the boast of Glendale department stores and specialty shops that they sell for less, and when one considers the savings effected in overhead, it is most certain that they can afford to do business on a smaller margin. All they ask is an opportunity to prove the assertion and thereby build stocks and store service bigger and better.

While Glendale stores and streets are busy, there is not the jam of people to contend with. You will not be trampled to death or chased from pillar to post in New York the first week in July, states that he will not make the trip east, but that the subject assigned to him will be presented at the convention in a paper which he has written and is sending to the convention.

This announcement will be of interest to his many friends and patients, who had read that he would personally attend the convention.

Dr. T. C. Young Not To Attend Convention

Dr. T. C. Young of 620 East Broadway, who has been announced as one of the speakers before the twenty-seventh annual convention of the American Osteopathic association, convening in New York the first week in July, states that he will not make the trip east, but that the subject assigned to him will be presented at the convention in a paper which he has written and is sending to the convention.

Fire Lines Are Cut To Save Watershed

SACRAMENTO, June 22.—Autoists passing through Ukiah, Mendocino county, have probably wondered at the white strips following the crests of some of the distant brush covered mountains to the east. The strips, according to the State Board of Forestry, are fire lines, one hundred feet in width, which have been cut through the dense brush for a distance of seven miles. They completely encircle the watershed area, upon which the Mendocino State Hospital at Talmage is dependent for its water supply, and provide a means whereby fires that threaten this valuable watershed may be checked.

Oil Coated Pelicans Are Dying Off Coast

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Vast swarms of pelicans that live along the Southern California coast are fast being annihilated by oil covering the surface of the ocean, according to J. M. Bush, a resident of the Terminal Island and one-time fisherman there. "The pelican cannot get off the water with his wings covered with heavy oil," Bush declared. "Consequently, he is unable to get live fish for food and is forced to become a scavenger, and when he does the dead fish he eats kill him."

HAZEL LINKOGEL PICKED TO PLAY

Talented Glendale Violinist
Chosen to Appear in Scholarship Test

That Miss Hazel Linkogel, Glendale girl, graduate of the Glendale High school, talented violinist and beneficiary of the Glendale Music club, was one of five young violinists, and the only girl, chosen last Sunday in Chicago out of a group of several hundred contestants to play before Leopold Auer, master violinist, next Sunday, is the news brought to Miss Linkogel's Glendale relatives and friends by her sister, Mrs. E. E. Gosrau, who arrived from Chicago yesterday.

Mrs. Gosrau, whose home is in Galveston, Tex., accompanied Miss Linkogel to Chicago, and has come to Glendale for a month's visit with her other sister, Mrs. Pearl G. Curran, of 560 Riverdale drive.

Mrs. Gosrau gives an interesting account of the preliminary tryout. The several hundred contestants were given numbers, and as the numbers were called they played from behind a screen in order that the judges could base their decisions on the music alone, without any knowledge of personality.

Miss Linkogel and four young men were named winners, and they will play on Sunday before Leopold Auer himself, who will select two winners of scholarships.

Counterfeit Liquor Prescriptions Found

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Los Angeles is being flooded with counterfeit prescription orders for various kinds of intoxicating liquors. Several druggists are now under investigation and scores of doctors are under suspicion. Prohibition officers recently seized the entire prescription records of two druggists and found that a majority of the prescriptions they filled were counterfeit.

What to do in the way of punishing the druggists and physicians, if found guilty of such an offense, is a problem. The druggists claim they accepted the prescriptions in good faith. In most cases the doctors denied issuance of the certificates, claiming their names had been forged.

The counterfeit prescriptions seized, were compared with legitimate prescriptions, show clearly defects in printing, but when scrutinized alone they are not likely to be noticed, according to Division Chief Anderson, an old-time revenue officer, skilled in studying revenue stamps and government documents.

NOTED SCOUT TO SUPERVISE CAMPS

Walter Wescott, Star Athlete of Southern Branch, To Lead Boys

Walter Wescott, Eagle and Jamboree Scout, star athlete and captain of the 1923 football team of the Southern Branch University of California, will attend all the 1923 co-operative Boy Scout troop camps to be held from June 27th to July 30th near Lake Arrowhead. This announcement came this morning from Frank C. Ayars, chairman Boy Scout Camping committee.

"Having heard of Mr. Wescott's fine record in Scouting and knowing him to be one of the cleanest young athletes in the university our committee decided that he was the man we wanted to supervise scout activities and campfire programs at Camp Royl-Kent. Accordingly we have induced him to attend all of the ten day troop camps for the express purpose of assisting the scoutmasters in preparing and carrying out their daily program of scout activities," stated Mr. Ayars.

According to Scout Executive Harold Benner, who has known Mr. Wescott from the time when he first joined the Boy Scouts in 1915, he has made a big record in scouting and has piled up many honors at the University of California, Southern Branch, where he is now finishing his senior year. Following is a condensed record of his achievements to date:

Wescott's Record
Mr. Wescott has been actively connected with the Boy Scout Movement for nine years, and during that time he qualified for Life, Star and Eagle Scout, reaching the highest degree that can be conferred on any Boy Scout. After reaching the goal of twenty-one merit badges which is required for the Eagle rank he kept right on taking more until at the present time he has forty of these badges of distinction to his credit.

During the war he was awarded special medals by the government for selling huge amounts of thrift stamps and liberty bonds. In 1918 he won the Los Angeles county championship in bugling. During 1919-20 he served as assistant camp director of the Los Angeles Boy Scout Council and in 1921 he became assistant field executive.

At the present time he is physical director for boys at the Los Angeles Community Settlement House, sponsored by the Rotary Club of that city.

University Honors
Mr. Wescott's career at the University is equally as creditable as was his commendable course as a Boy Scout. He has been on the football team for three years and is captain of this year's team. In 1921 he made the swimming and wrestling team and during 1922-23 he was instructor in wrestling at the university in addition to being assistant instructor in gymnastics and posture training. He is vice-president of the student body and was yell leader for 1921-22. In 1921 he was president of the University Y. M. C. A. He was editor of the Freshman Handbook in 1921 and during this year is a member of the Year Book staff.

He plays the cornet, bugle, drums, ukelele, banjo, and violin, and plays in the university orchestra and band. He is also a captain in the R. O. T. C.

On top of all these things Mr. Wescott has been at the head of practically all his classes and has won two scholarships. He is a Red Cross first aid expert and is a member of the American Red Cross Senior Life Saving Corps.

Vetoes Increase in Teachers' Pensions

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—Senator Walter McDonald's bill increasing the retiring salary of California teachers from $500 to $720 a year was vetoed by Governor Richardson late last night.

The amendment to the retirement salary act, which was backed by the California Teachers' Association, increased the fees to be paid into the fund by teachers from $12 a year to $24 and increased the state's allotment in direct proportion.

The governor in vetoing the measure stated he believed the retirement salary scheme to be unsound.

Banks Bespeak Prosperity
How About Better Lights?
Health And Happiness
Make Room for Youth!

By Gil A. Cowan

GLANCING through the columns of The Glendale Evening News yesterday you saw the report of a new bank being launched in the "Fastest Growing City in America." In fact there is said to be a shortage of centers for banks here, which is a healthy sign from a financial standpoint.

There is no better barometer of business than a demand for another bank. And the fact that Glendale already has eight financial institutions bespeaks a city of prosperity and progress. Happy will be the day when a local clearing house is organized and the daily exchange of the city is reported.

While we are thinking of ways and means by which to give Glendale more publicity, it has been suggested that more light on the main business streets of the city would not be amiss.

It would be good advertising for Brand boulevard, Broadway, Colorado boulevard, San Fernando avenue to be brightened by better lights. It would be possible to use the present Brand and Broadway standards on Colorado and Central, while something more luminous be given the business district.

And money would be well burned in keeping Glendale "lit up" until midnight. Many people passing between Pasadena and Hollywood in the evening get the impression that this is a 10-o'clock town from the fact that the boulevard lights are dimmed so early.

University of California's superman had a message in The Glendale Evening News last night that every parent should give the once over. George S. Reed, farm bred student, in the college of law, says:

"I learned to swim in the old swimmin' hole, to box through scuffling with the boys in the neighborhood, to run by chasing the old cow down the lane to pasture, and to jump by leaping fences on the farm."

It ought to be a boy's privilege to live on a farm, or at least have the largest lot in which to play, and the same mode of living will not hurt the girls, either.

And if they cannot have the pleasure of the old swimmin' hole and chasing the cow to pasture, at least give them the opportunity of going camping and learning to live out in the open. It makes for men.

In glancing over the year books of the Glendale and Hollywood high schools yesterday, the writer could not help but admire the athletic teams. Perhaps it is because we are not much of an athlete, but more likely it is the way the good Lord intended the race to develop itself.

There was a doctor at the Rotary club luncheon yesterday who has an idea which is worthy of development. He and his associates are planning to contract to keep people well. That is a pretty big job, but certainly worthy of the attempt.

And we do not know what what he might have a patient in us some of these fine days, for keeping well is the hardest thing we do. In other words, are we like almost everyone else—sacrifice our physical selves to accomplish mental achievement.

That wasn't what life was made for, yet big business men gross the laws of health by over-eating, by remaining at the helm when they should be out on the golf links, and die at an early age. Think what it would mean to commerce and industry if contracts were made and carried out to keep people in good physical condition, as well as a happy frame of mind.

Certainly the mental capacity would be enlarged and the years of usefulness multiplied.

Graduations are ever. The exercises held last night conclude another year of school work in the annals of Glendale. Today finds a new class of young people entering into the fulfillment of their dreams.

Words of wisdom may be wasted upon them, yet no doubt they are made of such stuff as their forebears and they will carry the banner of enlightenment ever forward in the march of civilization.

And it is the bounden duty of the men and women who have succeeded to so organize that the increasing number of young people will be afforded an opportunity of making good in industry, business and professional life.

The spirit of youth makes the world go 'round!

Suit to Test Right To Pay Traffic Cops

SACRAMENTO, June 22.—This is the era of litigation in affairs political, judging from the number of suits filed or about to be filed.

The latest person to announce he will bring court action against the state is District Attorney George R. Lovejoy, of Fresno county, who has served notice that he will ask the supreme court to prevent State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson and Superintendent Will H. Marsh of the Motor Vehicle Department, from paying traffic officers on duty in Fresno county from the county's portion of motor vehicle funds.

Lovejoy holds that the state is usurping extraordinary powers when it reserves the right to appoint officers of a county and pay them out of county funds. His suit will question the constitutionality of the new Breed motor vehicle act.

FANS LIKE CARD AT TWIN PINES

Bob Kelly Makes Big Hit With Crowd by Way He Handles Self

By F. A. GRAHAM
Of The Evening News Staff
The boxing card at Twin Pines, Sunland, Wednesday night called for two main events. Instead there were three and a half. Bob Kelly the favorite, furnished most of the excitement. A brunoette gentleman of African extraction furnished the half, while Williams and Essex ran third.

Bob Kelly, a gentleman boxer if there ever was one, took on Kid Herman from Oakland and knocked him for a loop in the second round. Herman was a set up for Bob, being down a count of nine in the first and twice in the second, the last time for keeps. Kelly had a right to the chin and a left to the body working. He had Herman on the ropes time and time again and walked away from him to let Herman get his bearings and get set. He had Herman at a disadvantage several times and held the punch in clinches when he could have flattened his man with ease.

After this short exhibition, Kelly couldn't go in with Dundee, an ambitious but misguided youth who had been clamoring for a fight with Kelly. Bob played with him, furnishing the bugs with some comedy with his posing, calmly sitting in a far corner while Dundee rested on the canvas several times, taking full advantage of the count to rest. Dundee was down five times in the third and Bob plainly showed that he didn't care to go on with the bout or punish Dundee any more, but Dundee insisted.

Technical Knockout

At the bell for the fourth, however, Dundee walked over to Kelly's corner, shook his gloved hand and climbed out of the ring, giving Kelly a technical knockout. He had enough. In the third round Dundee tripped and fell and Bob helped him up and stepped back to let him get set. Little things like that are what packs the house. Take Kelly off the card and the house would be half empty.

Williams, the Lankershim Peach, alleged, and Kid Essex, introduced as the pride of Glendale, put on four rounds in the boxing. Williams was a good boy once, but his day is past. Essex may be a good boy some day, but not at once. Compared with the previous bouts they seemed slow and their punches lacked steam. We gave Essex a slight shade in the third and Williams one in the fourth. As the first two were even, this made a good draw.

Just before this part of the main event, Midnight, the African domino champion, entered the ring with a broom to make ready for him. He is one of Williams' hand-picked. Some ringside bug threw in a dime just to see what Midnight would do. The result was so good that the dimes began to drop faster, just to see the boy pick 'em up. He put it on for the customers and harvested a neat crop of small change, finally yielding to a prolonged howl that he sing a song. As a singer he is the best trainer in the bunch, but he can dispense the comedy. Dimes fell so thick that he threw away his broom to gather them in.

Gets Ten to One
Walter Dodge took on Kid Galloway and flattened him in the first round. Ever see one of those poles the kids have at school, with a revolving ring at the top with ropes attached to it, that they hang onto and swing around? Galloway must have thought he was back in his childhood. He sailed out of his corner and hooked one arm around Walter's neck and tried to swing. He kept up these tactics until Walter became peeved. The referee had some trouble keeping Galloway off Dodge and warned him several times to break clean from the clinches.

When Galloway found that his hanging tactics wouldn't work, he claimed a foul and flopped to the floor, but the referee was onto his job and denied the claim. Galloway was down five times, and took full advantage of the count each time to think it over. This could have been a good fight if he had had more heart for his job.

Kid Carr knocked out Cyclone Julio in the second round, and Gonzales got a draw with Young Julius in the curtain-raiser.

Shorty Williams of Glendale was the referee, except for the Williams-Essex go, when Kimpel was the third man in the ring.

ASK COUNCIL TO REPEAL DOG LAW

Council Asks Petitioners to Submit Draft of New Ordinance

A petition asking for the repeal of the existing dog ordinance was presented to the City Council last night, bearing the signatures of about two hundred dog owners or dog lovers of Glendale, the petition stating that the present law works a hardship on both the dogs and their owners by the manner in which it regulates the keeping of dogs in Glendale.

Councilman Sam Davis requested Edwin S. Culp, who spoke in support of the petition and as a representative of the Dog Protective Association, to submit to the Council a draft of the new ordinance that the dog lovers would like to have passed, promising that the City Council would take it up and adopt the suggestions of the association as closely as possible in order to secure a law that would be satisfactory to the dog owners and to the city officials as well.

Mr. Culp cited the case of two dogs, which, he asserted, were taken from the front porch of their owner's home and were killed by the dog man, but Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police, explained to Mr. Culp that the two dogs in question had not been licensed, and that they had chased a city employee out of the yard of the house of their owner when he was in the execution of his duty. Only those dogs that are without license tags, Col. Fraser declared, are taken up and destroyed, while those that are wearing tags when they are taken up are returned to their owners. Col. Fraser insisted that complaints over the enforcement of the existing dog ordinance be backed up by facts and stated that none of his men had, at any time, destroyed a dog that was licensed.

Favor New Law

All of the council members expressed themselves as favoring the passage of a new ordinance covering the keeping of dogs in the city, and as soon as the representatives of the Dog Protective Association can agree upon a draft of the proposed ordinance it will be taken up by the authorities and passed.

Dr. H. B. Crocker, 2820 Oak Glen avenue, asked that some protection against fire be given the residents of Verdugo canyon and adjacent territory, stating that the distance of this section from the city rendered it almost impossible for the fire department to reach the scene of a fire in time to save the burning property. The dry brush and weeds in the canyon constitute a menace, he stated, especially in the present dry season, and he asked that a chemical engine be stationed at a point where it would be readily available in case of fire in that district. Mayor Robinson said that he approved of the suggestion made by Dr. Crocker and instructed City Manager W. H. Reeves to give the matter immediate attention.

An ordinance was introduced authorizing the city to receive back the money that had been expended on Verdugo Park and on the Glendale airport and to pay the money thus received back into the funds from which it had originally been taken.

"When we gathered in this room this afternoon there were in this country in bed, sick several thousand old men. It perhaps is indelicate for me to refer to that fact, but it is a fact, and we are grown up and we have got to face these things. On these old men gentlemen collectively have spent a considerable amount of time and a considerable amount of money. It is to be supposed that you have made some impression upon them regarding your service and your purposes and your possibilities; and in this interval while we have been sitting here those old men have died and all your time and all your money and whatever you have built up in the way of good will in their minds—all those things have passed out with them.

"In the same interval in the same half hour there have been born in this country several thousand lusty boys and girls to whom you gentlemen mean no more than the Einstein theory. They do not know the difference between a kazza lamp and a stick of Wrigley's chewing gum. Nobody has ever told them that 'Ivory soap floats' or that children cry for Castoria or what sort of soap you ought to use if you want to have a skin that people would like to touch. Nobody has ever told them any of the other facts that are so vital in maintaining existence in these occupied modern times.

"The whole job of giving to them all the things that they are going to need in order to be able to form an intelligent public opinion and to exercise an intelligent influence in the community has to be started from the beginning and done over again.

"So the first very simple thing that I would say to you (and it is so simple that it seems to me it ought to be said at every convention of this kind) is that this business of public relations is a very constant business, that the fact that you told your story yesterday should not lead you into the delusion of supposing that you have ever told it. There is probably no fact in the United States that

Value Of Advertising Is Emphasized By Famous Writer At Convention

BRUCE Barton, the forceful writer whose stories and advertisements are nationally known, addressed the National Electric Light Association convention in New York two weeks ago today on the subject, "How to Advertise." A copy of his speech has been received by The Glendale Evening News and is well worth perusal by every business man.

Two stories are told by the author as having direct application to business, his words being as follows:

"The first story I will relate concerns a member of my profession, an advertising man, who was in the employ of a circus. It was his function to precede the circus into various communities and there to call at the newspaper offices and make sure that the notices would be flattered, and to put up upon the fence posts and the barn pictures of the bearded lady and the man-eating snakes and, finally, to get in touch with the proprietor of some store and contract with him for the space on either side of the elephant to be used for advertising purposes in the parade.

"So, coming to a crossroads town one time, he found that there was only one store and the proprietor did not receive him enthusiastically. Said the proprietor: 'Why should I advertise? I have been here for twenty years. There isn't a man, woman or child around in these parts that does not know where I am and what I sell and how I do business.' The advertising man answered very promptly, because in our business if we hesitate we are lost, and he said to the proprietor, pointing across the street: 'What is that building over there?' 'The proprietor said to him: 'That is the Methodist Episcopal church.' The advertising man said: 'How long has that been there?' 'The proprietor said: 'Oh, I don't know; seventy-five years, probably.' And yet,' said the advertising man, 'they ring the church bell every Sunday morning.'

Great Sermon

"My second story has also a religious flavor. It relates to a gentleman named Joseph, who is now deceased. Those of you who, like Mr. Seitz, in these times that do not know where I am and what I sell and how I do business, have found some account of his very remarkable business career in that book. Those of you who have not read that book or who do not have it in your libraries may have heard of him through the works of Rudyard Kipling, because Mr. Kipling said of Joseph, 'this, as you will remember: "Who shall doubt the secret hid under Cheops' pyramid was that the contractor did Cheops out of several millions, and that Joseph's sudden rise to controller of supplies was graft of monstrous size worked on Pharaoh's swarthy citizens?'

"But the account of Joseph in the Old Testament is much more complete and to his credit. You remember that he left his country under difficulties and, coming into a strange country, through his diligence and intelligence he rose until he became the principal person in the state, second only to the king. Then there came to him, in the account, in that story, what I regard as one of the most amazing, one of the most staggering, lines of business history, a line that I think ought to be engraved deep on the office wall of every man who has anything to do with public relations, because with no interruption, no explanation, the account which has just finished telling of Joseph's remarkable career (and he reached a point where his public relations were widespread and where his private relations had all the good jobs in the kingdom) goes on to say: 'And Pharaoh died and there arose in Egypt a new king which knew not Joseph.'

"Now, gentlemen, I believe that that is the greatest sermon ever written on the subject of public relations.

Time and Tide

"When we gathered in this room this afternoon there were in this country in bed, sick several thousand old men. It perhaps is indelicate for me to refer to that fact, but it is a fact, and we are grown up and we have got to face these things. On these old men gentlemen collectively have spent a considerable amount of time and a considerable amount of money. It is to be supposed that you have made some impression upon them regarding your service and your purposes and your possibilities; and in this interval while we have been sitting here those old men have died and all your time and all your money and whatever you have built up in the way of good will in their minds—all those things have passed out with them.

"In the same interval in the same half hour there have been born in this country several thousand lusty boys and girls to whom you gentlemen mean no more than the Einstein theory. They do not know the difference between a kazza lamp and a stick of Wrigley's chewing gum. Nobody has ever told them that 'Ivory soap floats' or that children cry for Castoria or what sort of soap you ought to use if you want to have a skin that people would like to touch. Nobody has ever told them any of the other facts that are so vital in maintaining existence in these occupied modern times.

"The whole job of giving to them all the things that they are going to need in order to be able to form an intelligent public opinion and to exercise an intelligent influence in the community has to be started from the beginning and done over again.

A Constant Business

"So the first very simple thing that I would say to you (and it is so simple that it seems to me it ought to be said at every convention of this kind) is that this business of public relations is a very constant business, that the fact that you told your story yesterday should not lead you into the delusion of supposing that you have ever told it. There is probably no fact in the United States that is easier to impress upon people's minds than the fact that Ivory soap floats, and yet the manufacturers of Ivory soap think it not inconsistent or wasteful to spend over a million dollars a year in repeating that fact over and over again.

"It is a day-by-day and hour-by-hour business, gentlemen. Every day and every hour 'the king' dies and there arises a new 'king' in this country to whom you and as your works mean absolutely nothing.

"Now, the second thing and very simple thing that it seems to me I might say to you is that in your dealings with the public, in what you write and say to them, you have got to be genuine; at least, you have got to appear to be genuine.

"When I came to New York a great many years ago I had a lot of trouble with banks. I had great difficulty in finding any bank that would be willing to accept the very paltry weekly deposit that I wanted to make, and I finally found one, which was not as closely guarded as the others, and I succeeded for over a period of three years in being insured by the teller every Saturday, and at the end of three years, when I came to draw out my money, I had an audience with the vice-president, who wanted personally to insult me.

Ending Old-Fogysm

"I said to myself, 'If I live and grow old in this town, some day I think I would like to have a crack at this situation,' and so as the years passed, as they have the habit of doing, and I lived and grew old, one day a bank came in to us and said they would like to have us do some advertising for them. I said to them in language that they would understand: 'Now, you go back to your office and shave off all the side whiskers that there are in your bank and you take all the high hats and carry them out into the backyard of the bank, and you put them in a pile and you light a match to the pile and burn them up, because I am going to advertise to the people that are human, and it may be a shock to have them come in and find you as you are.'

"And it said: 'There is a young man in this town who is looking for a friendly bank, a bank where his affairs will be remembered, his name and where some interest will be shown when he comes in.' "And it was very successful. It was too successful. It was so successful that we could not control it and all over the country there broke out a perfect epidemic, a kind of measles, of friendly banking, and who never had had or needed an electric fan in their offices. They suddenly sat up and said: 'Why, we are friendly.'

"Well, our bank dropped out. The competition was too keen. But it culminated, I think, in a letter which I saw and which was mailed by the bank to a really very important bank in a large city of this country. I won't attempt to quote it verbatim, but it was to this effect:

"Dear Customer: As I sit here all alone in my office on Christmas evening thinking of you and how much we love you, I really wish that you and every other customer could come in here personally so I could give you a good sound kiss."

"Well, that is a trifle exaggerated, but the fact is this: If you don't feel these things you could make other people feel them. Emerson said, as you will remember: 'What you are thunders so loud I cannot hear what you say.' Unless there is back of this desire for better public relations a real conviction, a real, genuine feeling, that you are in business as a matter of service, not merely as a matter of advertisement, unless there is that, then it is very dangerous, indeed, to attempt to build public relations on any other ground.

How to Get It Over

"The third very simple thing, and the last thing that I suggest, is this: In dealing with the public the great thing is to deal with them simply, crisply and in language that they can understand.

"In a degree you suffer like those taxicab men. You come to Mrs. Barton and you say, 'Buy this washing machine and it will do your washing for a few cents an hour.' She says, 'Isn't that wonderful?' She buys it, and at the end of a month she sits with your bill in her hands and she says, 'We have run this five hours, and that will probably be so and so.' Then she opens the bill and finds that she has not run it five hours; that she has run it forty-one hours and seventeen minutes and thirty-two volts, and that that is $2.67.

"Well, those are things that I suppose will straighten out.

"Asking an advertising man to talk about advertising at a convention like this is a good deal like asking a doctor to talk about health. I have listened to many such addresses and they are all about the same. The eminent physician says, 'Drink plenty of water. Stay outdoors as much as you can. Eat good food. Don't worry. Get eight hours' sleep. And if you have anything the matter with you, call a doctor.'

"So I say to you that there is a certain technique about these things, and if you have anything seriously the matter with you, from a bald head—and many of you have very bald heads—to a nervous breakdown, there probably is some doctor in your town who has made his business of that

Surgeon Claims Sure Cure for Paralysis

VIENNA, June 22.—A sensational medical discovery for cure of paralysis is claimed by Professor Wagner, a well-known Austrian specialist, who has long been working in collaboration with his assistant, Professor Dattner.

Professor Dattner, in reporting to the Vienna medical society, said the new therapeutical treatment already has shown important practical results. Out of 300 patients treated there was a large percentage of complete cures.

The cure is based on the discovery that high fever increases the resistance of human organism. Professor Wagner found that paralytics suffering from malaria had a greater chance of recovery because malaria mobilizes the human body's natural "defenses" in a much higher degree than simple fever. The higher the degree of fever, the more sure is the certainty of a cure, according to Professor Wagner.

In cases where paralysis had advanced too far to make a cure possible, Professor Wagner said his treatment had halted the progress of the disease.

MOSCOW, June 22.—This city is suffering from a telephone famine.

Before the war there were 10,000 telephones in Moscow. There are now only 22,000, and only two of the four central stations are in operation. The great lack is the receiving and transmitting apparatus. This comes from Sweden and is very expensive. On May 1 there were only 3,000 of these receivers in stock, and only business enterprises and government department heads are allowed telephones until the supply is greater. The rates are low and will be advanced in July to about 15 a month. By January, 1924, it is expected that all four central stations will be operating. Moscow has long-distance connections with Petrograd, Kharkov, Orel, Gula, Kursk, Ekaterinoslav and Nizhney Novgorod.

In the Ukraine last year 60,000 illiterates were taught to read and write.

In a recent commercial conference a representative of Persian merchants said: "Where the English fleet have trod nothing grows any more, but where the Russians come there growth appears. The Russian commerce brings us advantage, but the English only destroy."

The Czechoslovakian Relief Mission in Moscow is "miffed." It has been sending relief supplies to the Crimea, and one of its cars, marked "Condensed Milk," was mysteriously diverted from Kiev and billed for Moscow. At Kursk station it was held up by the local authorities. The Czechoslovaks demanded its return and damages for detention, but it has not been returned. It was found to contain alcohol, chocolate, sugar, tea, matches, fats, stationery and individual parcels.

A children's town near Moscow, accommodating 200 children, has been named for Varovsky. It has beautiful gardens and groves. In Odessa the communal workers have named their club for Varovsky.

Billy Welker

Billy went on to tell the poor frightened old goat all the things he would do to any one who abused him. "I should butt him and jump on him with all fours. As for the person who tried to throw hot water on me, he would find the hot water spilling on himself, for I should butt him in the back before he had time to throw it."

"Oh, you would not dare to defend yourself, would you?" said the old goat. "If you did, they might cut off your horns!"

"Not mine! I am a free and independent goat, and I pity anyone that tries to coop me up or abuse me. I can generally manage to break out of any place I am shut in, and if anyone abuses me, I would simply nearly kill them and they would be glad to escape with their lives."

"I wish I had your daring spirit, but I haven't, and I can't assert myself now, in my old age."

While the goats were talking, they walked around to the back of the hotel. Here they saw piles and piles of groceries, fruits and vegetables that had just been brought from the steamer.

"Now is our chance to get a good square meal," said Billy. "While everyone is away, we will just help ourselves to these nice, fresh lettuce, carrots and cabbages. Yum! Yum! This lettuce certainly does taste good, cool and juicy after the food I have been eating on shipboard. Just try a head of lettuce. I can recommend it as being good."

The old goat, being thus urged took a frightened look around and when he hit upon a juicy head of lettuce the first he had ever tasted in his whole life. He found it delicious, and after the second bite he decided to eat the whole head, even if he was caught and beaten for it, it tasted so good.

"Try a bunch of these nice, yellow carrots, or some turnips," said Billy. "You will find them fresh, crisp and spicy."

But the old goat could not stop eating the lettuce. It was good enough for him after the dusty, tough grass and weeds he was in the habit of living on.

"No, thank you; this lettuce is good enough for me."

"I see a pair of stairs that leads directly to the upper veranda. We better each take a bunch of something in our mouths and go up there before anyone finds us here," proposed Billy.

So each took a head of lettuce and quietly crossing the lower veranda they mounted the steps to the upper one.

(Tomorrow you will hear of the adventures of the goats in the hotel.)

UNCLE SAM'S KITES

Much use of kites is made by the United States government, in the latest instance for naval airplanes. These planes are mostly either flying boats or "hydroplanes" provided with pontoons to serve as floats. In effect they are a quack birds, and must be able to rest upon water.

Now and then it happens that one of them becomes disabled and if, as is usually the case, it depends for its radio upon an antenna that trails behind in flight, it is helpless to send out signals for help. Hence the novel expedient of carrying a long kite, which under such circumstances may be sent into the air, carrying an aerial.

The box kite, as a contrivance for exploring the upper regions of the air, owes its development mainly to the U. S. Weather Bureau. Its "string" is eight or ten feet of piano wire wound on a reel that is operated by a power plant consisting of a 250-volt, five-kilowatt generator, connected with a four-cylinder gasoline engine. The reel is mounted in a circular house which turns on a circular track with the breeze.

Kites thus operated have reached a height of four miles, carrying automatic instruments for recording temperature, moisture and other conditions far aloft. At high levels in the atmosphere immense quantities of electricity are stored under conditions which science does not as yet know much about. A steady current comes down the piano wire "string," and when a storm comes up or clouds approach, it increases to such an extent as might render dangerous unless precautions were taken.

Some theorists imagine that the time will arrive when means will be found for drawing upon the electricity stored aloft, and utilizing it for mechanical purposes. Possibly they are right. It is worth while in this connection to mention the fact that the current delivered through the "string" of a Weather Bureau kite was recently made to run a little machine with pasteboard wheels. As an experiment it was at least interesting.

INDUCTANCE may be defined as that property of an electrical circuit by which energy may be stored up in electromagnetic form. Inductance, or the co-efficient of self-induction, may also be defined as the property of an electric circuit by which it produces induction within itself. Inductance and self-inductance are practically the same. The unit of inductance is the henry, which is that inductance possessed by a circuit which has an induced E. M. F. of one volt, when the current is changing at the rate of one ampere per second. That is, if the current increases from zero to value of one ampere through a coil having an inductance of one henry during one second of time, the change in the number of lines of force set up about it will cause an induced pressure of one volt. The henry is a large unit for practical use, so a smaller unit called the millihenry is used. A millihenry is one thousandth of a henry. Another unit is the microhenry, which is one millionth of a henry. Capacity is a much abused word in radio and we may as well familiarize ourselves with it. Briefly, capacity is the property of an electrical circuit by which energy is stored up in electrostatic form. Perhaps you do not quite understand the word electrostatic? Electro always means electricity or electrical and static means at rest. In our case capacity is the property of an electrical circuit in which electricity is stored at rest. To store electricity in this way we use what is known as a condenser. It is a sort of electrical reservoir in which we store electrical energy through the property of electro-static capacity possessed by the condenser. Condensers are formed with two conducting surfaces separated by an insulating or non-conducting material. If we took a window pane and pasted a piece of foil on either side of it we would have a condenser, the glass plate being the insulating medium and the foil the conductors. If this condenser were placed in an electrical circuit the current would not pass through the glass, but would build up electrical charges on the conducting surface of the condenser. The conductor would only have a certain definite capacity to hold these charges. When it becomes "full" it would discharge, just like a bucket with too much water in it. The condenser, however, would discharge itself completely, once it started to discharge.

Electrical current works fast, and when an alternating current runs into a condenser it charges it in a fraction of a second, and when charged, it immediately discharges into the electrical circuit, thus creating high frequency oscillations for making radio waves. The capacity of a condenser depends upon the following: Size of the condenser surface, thickness and number of the insulating plates and the quality of them, the size and number of the conducting surfaces and the distance the plates are spaced.

A simple illustration follows: The ability of a common rubber balloon to hold air depends on three things: the size of the rubber sheet used to make it, the quality of it, and its thickness. The same is true of a condenser. The quality of the dielectric (insulating material) might be rubber, glass, oil, mica or air and will affect its capacity. Capacity will increase if the dielectric is made thinner, but it must not be so thin that it will break down (puncture) due to the electrical pressure in volts.

In the article on electromagnetic induction we learned that when a circuit consisting of a coil of wire and a battery is closed it takes considerable time for the current to reach its maximum value, due to the inductance or reactance in the circuit. The inductance of a circuit prevents the current from reaching its maximum value as quickly as it would otherwise. The effect on a condenser on alternating current is the opposite to that of inductance. If they are both in correct proportion, the one will neutralize the other and the current flowing in the circuit will be the same as though the circuit had no capacity or inductance. A condenser has a capacity of one farad if one volt potential will place a charge of one coulomb within it. The unit of capacity is the farad.

The farad is a very large unit. A

HOW'D YOU LIKE TO BE INCOME TAX COLLECTOR?

And Then Keep Tax? Nothing To Worry About Then, Eh, What?

By JACK HEIL

Somebody has gone to a lot of trouble to pick the nine men in the world who have nothing to worry about but the income tax collector.

Personally we can't think of anything that would be quite as profitable as getting the job of collecting income taxes from these nine worried humans—on a commission basis, of course, say a hundredth of one per cent.

The only drawback to that arrangement would be that in some things less than no time we'd have to take our place as No. 10 on the list and then our carefree days at so much per week—some weeks—would be over.

The boys who gather round the corner grocery cracker barrel and on the hi-stool of the Wall Street barbers have doped it out that "Hank" Ford, who has shaken up more persons than all the earthquakes put together, has also shaken them down for about $500,000 ironmen, all of which now is safely locked up in the Ford vaults or invested in his numerous enterprises. And fliers just won't run on anything but gasoline, in spite of reports to the contrary, so that lets John D. Rockefeller sneak in to second place with some odd 500,000,000 smackers and the gas station cash registers tinkle merrily on. John sometimes gives away dimes to cut down his income tax, but somehow or other gas all seems to go up and nullify his efforts.

Percy Rockefeller also comes in for a $100,000,000 split as a result of "Hank's" success in scattering fliers about. The income tax from these fortunes, minus exemptions, of course, ought to be enough to buy "ham and eggs" for a week or two, anyway.

Then there's the Duke of Westminster. His dukedom is said to have about $125,000,000 locked up in the family exchequer.

Of course Maharajah Geckwar of Baroda might well claim much more as exemptions because of the added expense of maintaining his herd of trained elephants which Ford hasn't yet put out of style with his fliers, but the commission on his tax ought to furnish several cups of coffee at the current rate of exchange. He is supposed to have $125,000,000.

Figure on adding to this the percentage on the $125,000,000 of Sir Basil Zaharoff, the "Mystery Man" of Europe who collects his tariff on the Monte Carlo receipts, the Vickers gun firm and a score of other enterprises.

We might use our commissions on the tax on the income from J. B. Duke's $100,000,000 tobacco enterprises for cigar money, thereby increasing his income for the following year. Then there's Hugo Stinnes worth $100,000,000 in German marks, and George F. Baker who has coaxed a similar amount out of railroads, steel and other interests.

Now, if there is anyone else who desires to enter this little international contest to see who can collect the largest income and pay the least tax and compete with these gentlemen they can do so by forwarding their applications to any reputable alienist. And, boy, dust off that padded cell.

The meeting of the board of directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, which is to be held tonight in the rooms of the organization at 7:30 o'clock, will be open to the public, and one of the matters to be taken up for consideration will be the suggestion made recently by Attorney Bert P. Woodard, that Glendale consider the advisability of adopting the borough form of government in view of the proposed changes in the charter of Los Angeles.

If you are strong enough to control anger, it will dissipate itself.

CAMP COMMITTEE CONSIDERS BIDS

Contracts Are Awarded for Boy Scout Needs at Arrowhead

The Boy Scout Camping Committee met Thursday night at the district scout office, 103 1/2 South Brand, for the purpose of discussing the final arrangements for the 1923 co-operative troop camps near Lake Arrowhead.

Nine different bids were received for foodstuffs, tentage and sleeping equipment, kitchen equipment, tableware, and utility equipment.

Cornwell & Kelly of 107 South Brand were awarded the order on kitchen, table and utility equipment. Their bid amounted to $170.81. The Army and Navy Department Store of Los Angeles was awarded the order for tentage and sleeping equipment. Their bid amounted to $227.45. To Young's Market Company of Lake Arrowhead goes the bid on foodstuffs delivered right at Camp Royl-Kent daily as called for, there by assuring fresh meat, vegetables and other supplies at all times. Their bid was $655.57.

The pioneer squad will leave Glendale for Lake Arrowhead early Saturday morning accompanied by a large truck loaded with the camp equipment. Their objective will be to get Camp Royl-Kent in readiness to receive the hundred or more Boy Scouts from the Verdugo Hills District who will spend ten days in the wilderness this summer. The following scouts have been selected for the pioneer squad: Floyd Craft, Troop No. 2, Glendale; Cecil Pereira, Troop No. 4, Glendale; Stanley Runyon, Troop No. 1, Burbank; and Robert Rutherford, Troop No. 1, Tujunga. The scouts will be accompanied by M. E. Hill, the Scoutmaster of Tujunga. The scouts will be accompanied by M. E. Hill, the Scoutmaster of Tujunga, Walter Wescott and Scout Executive Harold Benner.

The Soul of a Scissors Grinder

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

In every way, the neighborhood thought, Angelo Lombro was queer. There was his hat, a peculiar dish-shaped black one which he had worn for years, the rope which stood him in stead for a belt, and the old working shirt which he wore even on Sundays. Angelo, for all of his learning, was not a bit particular. A man who taught his countrymen how to read and write, who was known by the big men in the school department, looked little better than a tramp. The neighbors thought this strange, and, more than all, they wondered where he went every spring.

When the first warm weather arrived Angelo said good-bye to the Merlo family, with whom he boarded, and disappeared. He returned when the frost made the roads hard and rough under foot, and not once did he explain where he had been or what he had been doing.

Always Angelo took the same route out of the city. In a neighboring town he went to a shed, where he uncovered the outfit of a scissors grinder, strapped it on his back and set out on foot over the roads. Angelo lived for the warm part of the years when he could talk to the housewives and meet with the men of the country and small towns. For thirty years he had been doing this, going over the same roads, and there were many here and there he could call friends.

One day Angelo placed his kit on the ground and sprawled on the soft grass beneath a tree. The sky was of the blue of Italian skies and the air as soft as that of the town, near Genoa, where he had been young. The scissors grinder looked into the heavens and lived again the story which had sent him across the seas.

It was a young Angelo Lombro, clerk of the town and doctor of medicine, who set out in his leather jacket and now puttees for a hunting trip in the mountains. In his hat were two feathers placed there with a smile and a kiss, and they stood for their love. Angelo and Carlotta! Of the hunting trip he remembered little. The return was an end of dreams. Angelo was met by Carlotta's mother, who wept and gestured wildly. The girl, she said, had eloped.

Angelo destroyed every paper in his office. He even put aside his gay clothes and took the garb of the laborer. In the steerage he went to America. He rose and shouldered his pack. It would be time for dinner soon and he was to dine with a friend. Angelo walked into town and up the walk of one of the finest homes. He and Judge Walker, each year, talked of mythology and the sciences until late in the night. When he talked to this friend, and the few others in one town or another, he forgot his years and lived again as another man.

At the table the two sat long over their cigars, each envying the other. The life of the open road, the wayside adventures of a scissors grinder appealed to the youth and romance of a judge grown gray and fat. The comfort and the library of the judge spoke to Angelo of what might have been. Into that library they went to pull down books here and there, volumes which would stimulate the talk both loved, to browse and to smoke. Angelo, with the rope around his waist and the dirty working shirt, was as much at home as the judge.

With 11 o'clock came the usual ceremony of coffee and toast. The judge pressed the bell and Angelo looked up as the servant entered. The eyes of this old woman and Angelo met over the table. Hers held an appeal, straining to be released in a torrent of explanation and protestation. His were level and without recognition. Angelo and Carlotta!

"It is queer," said Angelo to the judge. "Coffee never keeps me awake. And when it does, I will keep on drinking it." The woman left the room hurriedly with her head down, as an animal would charge blindly through a thicket. Angelo smiled and put so much brilliance in his conversation that even the judge wondered.

Judge Walker wondered again next morning when they told him Angelo had not waited for breakfast or to say good-bye. He had left in the night. In the summer Angelo Lombro swings a bell as he walks through the countryside and the villages. Judge Walker wonders each year if he is never going to return.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

I wonder if people in Dante's day were careless about paying their bills.

I wonder if there were small tradesmen then who had to suffer actual privation because the rich people who traded with them put off paying their bills as long as possible.

It seems probable that there were. How very strange, then, that Dante didn't include in his Inferno an individual purgatory for people who don't pay their bills with reasonable promptness, with an extra long sentence for people who are careless about debts to small tradesmen.

The big concern is equipped to deal with slow payers. It knows it will have to, and it adds a certain amount to prices to take care of them and lets the general public pay for those who abuse their privileges.

The contractor who does not expect a cash payment adds something to his bid on your work to pay interest on the cash he has to have to carry him along with out prompt payments. But the man who works by the day has no such margin.

And yet everywhere you will find people who are as careless about paying small tradesmen or people who work for them by the day as they are with big concerns. Perhaps more so, because the big concerns might, if left too long unpaid, hurt their credit.

I know a carpenter who did a piece of work a year ago last March for a woman. He charged for his labor by the day at a very moderate price. His bill was $419. To date he has been paid $75. In the meantime he and his wife and child must live. This man is an excellent workman who has shown his ability to get more work than he can do. He would like to hire another man to help him, but the well-to-do people he works for are such slow pay that he cannot be sure of being able to pay the man's wages every week.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

CLEANSING CREAMS

Don't over-use creams at any time, but in the hot weather be particularly careful about them. Heavy creams will make the skin too oily; in the summer they are apt to irritate it. In fact, unless you are treating deep wrinkles, I'd advise no cream but cleansing cream for hot-weather use.

The formula is as follows: White wax, 1 ounce; spermaceti, 1 ounce; white mineral oil, 5 ounces; rose water, 1 1/2 ounces; borax, 30 grains; oil of bitter almonds, 15 drops.

I make that last bitter almonds because I love its pungency, but any perfumed oil to the same amount will do.

Use this cream for cleansing; use it after exposure to the sun. It's as good as any other cream as a first aid after burning. Use it before going out, with a liberal coating of powder, if your skin isn't too oily; it will prevent tanning. Use it on shoulders and arms, especially on elbows which will grow grimy and ugly in the summer time. And if you want it cool and bleaching, use one and a half ounces of thin cucumber juice instead of rose water.

Heavy creams fill up the pores too much, which is their great fault in the hot weather. The cleansing cream is light, it rubs in easily, takes out the dust as you want it to do, and wipes off easily. Complexions are usually oily enough in the hot days and need nothing of that nature added. Indeed, one can almost dispense entirely with cold cream in the summer. It's useful mostly as a guard against tanning and after exposure to dust.

M. M. W.—For blackheads, cleanse the skin every night with hot water and a mild soap or a cleansing cream, after which use a fine cream to soften the balance of the soil in the pores. Remove the surplus and close the pores by dashing cold water over the face and throat, or by taking an ice rub. After the skin gets into the condition you describe, it takes a long time to fully recover. A

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

I, I, I, MYSELF: I—THE CONFESSIONS OF A BABY

Last week I told you about my wonderful achievement, my first set of teeth. Two of 'em! I told you how my mama, by her diet both before I came and now while she is nursing, was the one who really deserved the credit. I also warned you mamas not to attribute any illness to your babies' teething until you had ruled out illness due to other causes—because teething is a natural process and should not be accomplished by much disturbance.

I shall have twenty teeth in my first set, and I expect to have them all by the time I am two and a half year old. Doctor says I can expect them as follows:

Average time of eruption of deciduous or temporary teeth:

Two lower central incisors, six to nine months.

Four upper incisors, eight to twelve months.

Two lower lateral incisors, nine to twelve months.

Four anterior molars, twelve to sixteen months.

Four canines (upper, the "eye" teeth; lower, the "stomach" teeth), fourteen to twenty months.

Four posterior molars, twenty to thirty-six months.

At one year should have six teeth.

At eighteen months should have twelve teeth.

At two years should have sixteen teeth.

At two and one-half to three years should have twenty teeth.

My, but I am going to be careful of my teeth! After hearing Doctor talk to my mama, and my daddy about them, we sure are impressed with how important they are. Doctor says the first teeth should hardly be called temporary, because we can hardly look on them as temporary when some of them stay with us until we are twelve or thirteen years old. Deciduous is the real name for them. The word is taken from words meaning "to fall off."

Sometimes parents, thinking of them as temporary teeth, don't realize that they must have as good care as the second teeth. But it really is just as important to have good care taken of our first sets of teeth even though they are, in a way, temporary.

Doctor told us about children she had treated who had enlarged glands in the neck, rheumatism and sometimes heart disease, simply because of decayed teeth. The germs causing these troubles gained entrance into their little bodies through the decayed teeth, which were not given attention because their parents thought they were temporary.

We won't let anything like that happen in our families, will we, mamas? We won't think of the first set of teeth as temporary, but will realize that they are permanent and "important" for quite a period, won't we?

Of course I hardly need a toothbrush yet, but when I get enough teeth I will use it at least twice a day—in the morning and just before I don my chemise de nuit—that's elegant language for "my nightgown."

We will probably make a little game of it at first until I get the habit good and strong. My, what a picture that brings up—the habit good and strong! I think Doctor and I will have to write on that subject some day, for habits good and strong mean health and happiness good and strong.

Of course there are going to be other things that are important to keep my first set of teeth in good condition besides keeping them clean. Oh, yes, extremely important. I'll bet you know what the chief one is! Yes, you are right—it is my diet.

My mama will surely see that I get the foods containing the elements I need for my teeth, and some hard food to chew on every day so that my jaws and teeth will get some exercise. And you will see that your babies get these necessary foods, too, won't you, mamas?

Au revoir, A. SOCKUMS.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nearly thirteen and will be in high school next fall. Last year I was a member of a LITTLE MOTHER'S CLUB and learned to take care of children. I want to take care of some one's baby afternoons this summer, but my mother is opposed to it because she thinks that after I have helped her with the housework and gone down town and cleaned father's office that I ought to reserve the afternoons for pleasure. I do not want to do that though. I would rather take care of a baby. How can I get my mother's consent?

Another problem is, will some mother let me take care of her child? I would not charge anything for it. Of course I am quite young, but I have taken care of babies a great deal and love children.

Please tell me how I can get my mother to understand that I do not want to have the afternoon for pleasure and if you think some one would let me take care of her child. WHITEWATER GIRL.

It seems to me your mother is right in feeling that you ought to have your afternoons free for pleasure and play. To have charge of a baby would confine you too much. If I were I would not tie myself to any agreement. Make it known to the mothers of babies you know that you would enjoy taking care of them occasionally, and probably you will have all of that sort of work you want to do. I am sure your mother would not mind your caring for a baby occasionally. She feels, however, that to spend most of your afternoons that way would not give you the exercise, and rest you need.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 20 years of age and have been engaged since December to a fellow four years my senior. I have asked him a couple of times when he thought we could marry, and the only answer he ever gives me is when he gets money enough. Since we have been engaged he has not saved a cent, but spends everything he earns on himself. Should I keep on with his company or not? A BRUNETTE.

It is evident from your letter that you are not satisfied and you lack confidence in your fiancé. Naturally you are alarmed, since he shows so little interest in marriage that he is not trying to save and get ahead. It seems to me that it would be well to break your engagement and remain friends until the young man is financially able to consider marriage. When you are not engaged, it would be advisable to have other friends, too. I doubt if you are really sure of your love.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in my teens and have been going with a fellow who is about four years older than I am. I realize that I have made a mistake, and, although I want him for a friend, I want to quit going places with him. How can I discontinue attending places with him and yet not make him angry with me? I am afraid if I refuse to go places with him he will be angry. ANXIOUS.

You are the kind of girl who wants to eat your cake and keep it. Probably if you stop going with him and yet make his feelings will be hurt, and he will want to forget about you. Since you no longer enjoy his company, however, I would advise you to make excuses when he invites you places. After you have refused to go with him a few times he will realize that his company is no longer desired.

SPORTS

Tom Didn't Hitch His Wagon
To a Star, But He Got ThereHE KNOCKED OUT A STRING OF SECOND RATE HEAVIESTOMMY LEARNED THE GAME AS SPARRING PARTNER TO HIS BROTHER MIKETOMMY
GIBBONS

It isn't necessary to hitch your wagon to a star to get some place in this world.

Thomas Battling Gibbons, who has started training for his great chance at the world's heavyweight title, will tell the cockeyed universe and contiguous territories that.

For Gibbons had no thought of ambition to ascend to the top-most pinnacle of boxing fame himself when he first donned the gloves. His only hope was to make his own brother a champ.

And he said to Tom's credit that he gave several years that he might have used to forward his own ends in the ring to helping Brother Mike attain the heights he reached.

It was back in 1913 that Tom first entered the ring himself. And then he took up fighting, one might say, as a side line to training his brother. But the success with which he met in his first battles convinced him he himself had a future. He found that a couple of years of sparring with his speedy, clever brother had instilled in him much of the science of the game and considerable ability to hit.

So he hopped to it. It was in 1914 that Gibbons first drew real attention. He licked George K. O. Brown, out-pointed Billy Miske and knocked out Buck Crouse. The fact that Crouse was nearing the end of his days somewhat lessened the glory of that k. o., though.

Then the next year Gibbons licked Billy Murray, Billy Miske and Harry Greb, among others. Gus Christie was his most formidable opponent the next year, and then, in the next few years, up to 1921, he took on all the good middleweights.

In the summer of 1920 he took on weight, joined the heavyweight ranks and left a string of second-rate heavies prone on the canvas in a series of battles that extended from Dan to Dawson.

And as he waded through the big boys he found that years spent in the gym helping Brother Mike had given him something that ninety-nine per cent of the big boys lack—boxing science.

Gibbons may not stack up with Dempsey as a puncher. He may lack the rugged disposition to go through a long grueling fight with a man-eater like the champ, but he has the one asset which finally will spell defeat for the Manassas Mauler—boxing skill.

The average heavyweight is so slow on his feet and with his hands that a bone-crusher with the speed Dempsey has can get to him easily. Gibbons has the speed to keep away from Dempsey for a time at least. And this speed thereby may give him a chance to send home what he has in the way of punches between the champ's boring-in sessions.

And if Gibbons does surprise the ring world, Brother Mike will feel that Tom has not suffered for the modest ambition he held early in the game—of putting Brother Mike up near the top.

MANAGER GUARDS
GIBBONS' HEALTH

Challenger Fears Illness
More Than Fists of Jack Dempsey

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
SHELBY, Mont., June 22.—If Tom Gibbons had the throat of a prima donna, the limbs of a ballet dancer, the torso of an artist's model and the face of a collar ad, his health could not be guarded with more zealous care than is exercised in preparing for his coming championship bout with Jack Dempsey July 4. The writer visited Gibbons in his training quarters today.

At the breakfast hour the challenger allowed the meal to cool while he awaited our pleasure. "Can't afford to eat and talk at the same time," he explained laconically. "It takes my mind off eating and gives me indigestion."

Illness, it seems, is the one thing Gibbons respects more than Dempsey's punch. He has every reason to do so. It made him a bad financial risk to any promoter in New York and drove him out into the sagebrush to get his shot at the title. The shot will be worth exactly nothing unless it finds a permanent spot on Dempsey's jaw.

Spoiled Greb Bout

"If Greb had a punch he would have knocked me out that night," Gibbons declared. "I was lucky to last the limit, for I had nothing when I entered the ring and something less than that when I left it. I had suffered an attack of the flu two or three weeks before the bout, but I believed I had shaken it off. I knew better when I agreed to put up a fight."

Asked why he had not tried to have the fight postponed, the St. Paul entrant replied he failed to realize the met. Billy Murray in his full strength.

Gibbons has been seized by illness before several of his other bouts, but never has he requested a postponement. It seems to be a fetish of his that he will not give in to weaknesses of the flesh.

"The met. Billy Murray in Portland," Tom said, "I was unable to hold any food on my stomach. Something had gone wrong with my digestive apparatus, and while in the dining car en route I was forced to send the waiter back to the buffet with my steak because I could not eat it. I was with a party of friends and did not want to worry them by flaunting my weakness."

Health Good Now
"The Murray bout was the hardest of my career. He was a tough, rugged middleweight who had just shaded Jack Dalton in a decision fight. He certainly made it very unpleasant for me and I was feeling bad enough as it was. I met Clay Turner in Pittsburgh before I had fully recovered from an attack of the flu. I lived to regret it, although later I knocked Turner upside down."

Just at the moment, Gibbons' health is all that human flesh can expect. The altitude and climate of Shelby seem to agree with him like a close friend, but Eddie Kane and his handlers are taking about as many chances as a sure-thing gambler with Gibbons' health. They wouldn't let him box yesterday because he had a more or less harmless cold sore on his mouth.

GIRL UMPIRE BIG HIT ON DIAMOND

Makes Fewer Errors Than
Male Arbiters, Say
Team Managers

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Miss Nina Belle Hurst, the first lady umpire or umpirette to be admitted to the staff of the Southern California Baseball Managers' association, worked successfully her first game as official umpire when she officiated at a game between Van Nuys and San Fernando.

Miss Hurst, who is an athletic director employed by the Board of Education at Sawtelle, was admitted to the staff by an overwhelming vote when her application was made recently. Immediately officials of the staff were met with countless requests for her services by managers of various local teams.

She is said to be an excellent arbiter and makes less mistakes than the average male umpire. Her ability was first shown at a recent game between the Pasadena M. W. A. nine and the Van Nuys. The game was ready to start and the official umpire had not arrived. Miss Hurst volunteered her services and took command of the game until the official umpire arrived. It is immaterial to her whether she is called ing balls and strikes or umpiring bases.

Applications of a number of other umpirettes for membership to the staff are expected to follow Miss Hurst's success.

The Managers' association, whose president is Superior Judge Paul J. McCormick and whose secretary is Frank Kerwin, represents over 250 ball clubs in southern California. It is regarded as one of the strongest semi-professional baseball organizations in the country.

The stench emanating from Shelby, Montana, continues to get stronger as time goes by. There is a small arising through the use of the name of the American Legion in bolstering up the fight. Another smell comes of the financial mismanagement, and now a newspaper is printing front page articles to show that Dempsey, notwithstanding the white-washing he received from the courts on the charge of being a coward and a slacker during the war, deliberately lied and played the craven to stay at a safe distance from the event then transpiring in Europe.

Forty thousand persons is the capacity of the grand stand that has been erected at Shelby, Mont., for the Dempsey-Gibbons battle and now it is being freely predicted that there won't be one-half of them filled. All indications are that the advance sale of seats has been pitifully small and the prospects seem to be that the promoters of the battle will pay dearly for the publicity, such as it has been, that has accrued to the town.

As far as William Wrigley, et al., are concerned among many of the Pacific Coast baseball scribes, his connection with the

If Charlie Paddock, America's famous collegiate sprinter, has been quoted right, his idea of the ethics and decency of amateur sport are so wrapped and twisted as to stamp him as an undesirable in the ranks of the amateurs, and the sooner he is booted out of decent competition, the better.

Paddock has come out and stated that men who are running as amateurs are nothing but rank professionals, and the reason that he takes no cognizance of the fact is that were these men debarrd from further competition, the United States would stand a mighty poor chance at the next Olympics.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22. Yale freshmen, rowing brilliantly before thousands of spectators, today easily won their race, the first event in the annual Yale-Harvard regatta. Yale finished seven lengths ahead. A great cheer went up as the bare-backed boys pulling the blue tipped oars crossed the line. The race was over the two-mile course from the Navy Yard to Bartlett's Cove. Harvard finished tired and badly beaten. The time: Yale, 10:27 seconds; Harvard 10:46 seconds.

Every newspaper office knows him. No matter where he goes the first thing he does is to head for the editorial room and there divest himself of some alleged news or he sits down to a typewriter and turns it out himself.

This matter is sure to be on a subject concerning which he can lug in his own name. There have been mighty few of Paddock's literary efforts which have not had to do with Paddock as the hero.

Now it would seem that he has overstepped the bounds with his sensational accusations unless he is able to name places and dates and prove his assertions. There are scores of American athletes who have been placed under a cloud by Paddock's statements and they should get together and demand that Paddock make good his assertions. In fact, the good name of American sport demands it. It would be utterly unthinkable for American boys to participate next year in France unless this matter is brought to a focus. Action is essential and it should come quickly.

Paddock has been so much in the limelight and in an objection-

BURBANK PREPARE EXHIBIT FOR EXPOSITION

Revolving Globe Will Hold Displays of Burbank's Manufactures

Burbank will be represented at the Monroe Doctrine Centennial Exposition, July 2 to August 4, by a 12x15 foot booth, the chief feature of which will be a revolving globe eight feet in diameter, whose upper half will contain numerous three-cornered spaces wherein will be displayed exhibits from local manufacturing plants. The committee appointed to secure these exhibits, comprising C. D. Ashabanner, A. R. Graham, and K. K. Simpson, report that all concerns visited are eager to cooperate. One of them, the Jergen's soap people, agree not only to furnish a fine exhibit, but also to supply the services of their most expert window dresser, to put the exhibit in place and help if desired in preparation of the general exhibit.

The revolving globe is the joint idea and execution of Secretary of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce and Realty Board.

The giant globe will revolve approximately as the earth revolves, though slowly enough so that the exhibits in the niches may be plainly seen and noted. There will be a large arch across the front of the exhibit, resting on two pillars of beautiful architectural design, with the following words inscribed: "A World of Opportunities in Burbank."

It has been decided that one member of the Realty Board will take care of the exhibit on each day of the exposition, lots being drawn to determine which day should be assigned to each member. To Joe Radcliff fell the honor of having charge on July 2, the first day of the exposition, while to Mr. Hamner went July 26, which is Burbank Day.

It has been decided to have a register at the booth, where those desiring to leave their names with the Chamber of Commerce may do so. Cards bearing some of the outstanding features of the city will be distributed, together with copies of the new Burbank booklet, the Realty Board having agreed to contribute $350 or more toward the cost of this feature of the advertisement.

Phone Book for Burbank.
The Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company are planning to issue a local telephone directory for Burbank and Glendale subscribers. The book will be arranged in two columns, Burbank subscribers heading one column and Glendale subscribers the other.

There will be a classified section in this directory, on yellow paper, arranged in alphabetical order under the proper classification for each business or profession.

It is felt by the company that this local telephone directory will be a decided convenience to patrons.

Comes From Colorado.
W. H. McCarty has arrived from Montrose, Colo., by auto, accompanied by Ernest Shores, and is visiting his mother, who is living on Route No. 3, from Burbank. Miss Edith Offill has also arrived from Montrose, Colo., and is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Offill, at 225 Orange Grove, Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldberg, of Roscoe, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Henderson, of San Fernando.

Large Development.

The Louisville Gas & Electric Company expects to complete its new $2,500,000 gas manufacturing plant by November 15. Generating equipment will consist of four twelve-foot water gas sets, and will have a daily capacity of 12,000,000 cubic feet. The plant is on the Ohio river east of Louisville, and is so located that shipments of coal may be received by rail or water.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

TUJUNGA ARREST TWO MEN IN LIQUOR RAID

Big Tujunga Canyon Resident and Stock of Hootch Held by Officers

Cruze Ybarri and James McMullin were arrested in a liquor raid in the Big Tujunga Canyon by operatives out of the district attorney's office, according to a report made by the officers. Ybarri is a rancher in the canyon and the officers stated that he had been arrested a few weeks ago on a similar charge and fined $300. McMullin is alleged to have purchased liquor from the ranch and was arrested as he was leaving. A large quantity of liquor was seized at the ranch. This raid was supposedly the aftermath of the wild party indulged in by the five persons who were injured in the canyon early Sunday morning when their touring car went over a bank and plunged nearly one hundred feet to the bed of the canyon below, maiming and bruising them in serious manner. Several Tujunga men are reported as having narrowly escaped the raid by a short time.

The following officers were installed Wednesday afternoon by the Tujunga Parent-Teachers' association at the schoolhouse: Mrs. P. P. Correll, 663 East Olive street, president; first vice-president, Mrs. H. B. Lynch, 144 West El Centro; second vice-president, Mrs. John O'B. Bodkin, 155 South Sunset boulevard; third vice-president, Fred W. Axe was absent, being on a tour of the northern part of the state with Mrs. Axe. Recording secretary is Mrs. John Sweet; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frank; treasurer, Mrs. Doane; parliamentary, Mrs. Wade, and B. B. Reynolds was elected auditor.

Holdup Gang Believed Broken Up by Arrests

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Police detectives were convinced they have broken up one of the most dangerous gangs of holdup men in the oil fields of Southern California as they grilled Mark Yarbrough, alias Mark Jones, asserted leader of the gang; Jim Yarbrough, his asserted "pal," and C. O. Hartson, alleged members of the gang.

Yarbrough was arrested at Santa Paula and Jim Yarbrough was taken here. Hart was arrested several days ago on a worthless check charge, investigation of which led to the arrest of the two others.

They are suspected of stealing thousands of dollars' worth of loot from the oil fields.

SUNLAND THUGS BEAT, ROB SUNLAND VISITOR

Victim of Outrage Stripped And Left Senseless on State Highway

Erving Tatro of Santa Paula was on his way to visit his cousin, W. F. Stuart of Sunland, on a recent night and as he was driving over the detour where the Pacoima bridge is being constructed, west of Sunland on the state highway to San Fernando, he was flagged down by a red light and before he could see how many men were in the party he was knocked unconscious by a blow on the head.

When he regained consciousness later he found himself devoid of all clothing, even his shoes being taken, together with his money and other valuables. The thugs evidently could not start or run an automobile, for they left the car and Tatro drove to the home of his cousin and reported the hold-up. He was intending to leave shortly for a trip east and was on his way to visit relatives and friends at Sunland before starting.

Mr. Murray, salesman for the Tujunga Valley Land Company at Sunland, reports renewed activity in the vicinity, which he attributes to the recent attempt of an advance agent of an oil concern to secure leases for the purpose of prospecting for oil. The property desired comprises most of Tract 4129, which lies north of North street and between First and Second streets. The deal is still unsettled, but indications are that the property owners will give the company the desired chance to prospect in the territory.

Proachers' Picnic.
The ministers of southern California held their annual picnic at Hermosa Beach this year on Monday, June 18. Among other prominent pastors attending were Dr. Harper of Los Angeles, Dr. Skevington of Hollywood, Dr. Frances of the First Church of Baptists of Los Angeles, and Rev. W. E. Smith of the Sunland church.

A program of sports and games was enjoyed and other entertainment offered by the Hermosa Beach church, which was host to the visiting pastors.

Jesse Smith, son of Reverend Smith, will arrive the latter part of the week from Redlands, where he has just graduated from the university, to spend part of his vacation with his father at Sunland. Mrs. Vandeland, his sister, will spend the week-end at the parsonage. She also lives in Redlands.

Reverend Smith will take for his subject Sunday morning, "The Power of Christ." His son, Jesse, will probably preach the evening sermon.

The church is arranging an attractive program of Bible study for the coming months, that will interest the young people, as well as the older ones.

EAGLE ROCK LUMBER CONCERN BUYS PROPERTY

Secures Corner of Park and Central; Price Said To Be $25,000

The property at the corner of Central and Park avenues, formerly leased by the Eagle Rock Lumber Company, has been purchased by Emil F. Swanson, proprietor of that organization, for a consideration of $25,000.

The property has a frontage of 134 feet on Central and 459 feet on Park.

Having consummated the purchase, in order to safeguard his lumber interests there, Mr. Swanson thought best to remove his buildings and office from the Central avenue frontage, which he did, and has now sold the southwest corner, with a ninety-foot frontage and a depth of 120 feet, at the price of $150 per front foot.

This transaction indicates clearly the upward trend of property values in this section, residents feel.

Prior to negotiating this deal, Mr. Swanson had secured an option on a parcel of land south of Colorado boulevard, at the terminal of the freight line of the Glendale-Montrose railway. The residents of this district objected to the establishment of a lumber yard there, however, so Mr. Swanson sold the site at a good profit.

Eagle Rock's reorganized Chamber of Commerce has started off with a rush. Among the numerous beneficial things they have already done for the community is to issue an illustrated folder setting forth the many advantages of the community.

Among the illustrations contained are a typical foothill home, the Eagle Rock public library, the central school, the Security Trust & Savings bank, Presbyterian church, Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse, residence of H. C. Christians, upper quadrangle, Occidental college and the Edwards & Wilkey block.

An attractive art cover is provided and on the rear of the folder is a map showing the location of the Eagle Rock section in relation to other sections within a six-mile radius.

The pamphlet dwells on the ideal suburban advantages offered, the delightful social life, healthful climate, street improvements, business blocks, the new post office building, remarkable growth, conveniences, business opportunities and a host of other subjects of interest to prospective residents.

Eagle Rock was incorporated as a city March 1, 1911, the folder states, with a population of 600. Five years later the population was 1,800, an increase of 300 per cent.

The official 1920 census showed 2,250. The next year there was an actual increase of 1,200, making a total of 3,450. By 1922 this had reached 4,500, and by January 1 of this year the total had swelled to 6,700.

The material growth of Eagle Rock has been almost unbelievable, it is brought out. The following figures are offered as proof of this:

Building permits never below $100,000 per year since city was incorporated, while for 1920 they totaled $629,000, for 1921 $1,101,800, and for 1922 $2,008,900—the largest per capita growth of any city on the Pacific coast.

Location of Postoffice Is Topic at Luncheon

632 East Broadway, president of the association, announced that he would call the next meeting as soon as the circumstances warranted and that meanwhile all committees should continue to function as usual.

The installation of ornamental lights upon Glendale avenue was discussed briefly. It was reported that owners of about 5,600 feet out of the 17,000 feet of frontage had signed the necessary petitions. The matter was laid upon the table until additional petitions could be obtained.

Others present at the luncheon were: John Lampert, W. E. Mercer, A. Spair, P. J. McIntyre, K. C. Sipple, John F. Chandler, Guy Gibbs, J. K. Todd, and Dr. Lolita Flewelling.
